Caudle, Connelly Convicted Of Conspiracy in Tax Case

Will Receive Their Sentence On July 19

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Matthew J. Connelly and T. Lamar Caudle, high officials in the Truman administration, were convicted today by a federal jury of conspiring to fix an income tax evasion case.

They sat motionless as the verdict was read. U.S. District Judge Rubey M. Hulen set the sentencing for July 19, the same day he will hear motions which the defense said it would file for a new trial.

Connelly, 48, White House appointments secretary under former President Truman, and Caudle, 52, former Justice Department tax division head, could be sentenced to five years in prison and fined $10,000 each.

Mrs. Caudle, who has listened to testimony from the same seat in the spectators' section of the courtroom since the trial began May 7, like the defendants sat motionless as she heard the verdict.

The jury of eight men and four women, which took the case yesterday, deliberated eight hours and 43 minutes in all.

Caudle, now practicing law in his hometown of Wadesboro, N.C., and Connelly, now a public relations man in New York, were convicted of conspiring to defraud the government by trying to sidetrack criminal prosecution of Irving Sachs, a St. Louis shoe manufacturer.

Sachs eventually was indicted and pleaded guilty to evading $128,721 in taxes. He was fined $40,000 but escaped prison on the grounds of poor health.

The jury had been in deliberation only an hour and 15 minutes today. It had been sent to bed last night by Judge Hulen after deliberating seven hours and 28 minutes.

Connelly, dapper in a grey suit, said "No comment, boys," when approached by newsmen. His $5,000 bond was continued but Caudle, was required to furnish a new $5,000 bond because his bondsman died recently.

"I want you to know that my conscience is so clear and so open that when I face God, sweet children and my friends, I will have no apologies to make for anything I have done," Caudle said to reporters as he walked from the courtroom.

Caudle's attorney, Charles Margiotti of Pittsburgh, expressed the belief in Caudle's innocence and said "I hope and pray that the time will come when he will be vindicated."

Caudle, wearing a dark blue double-breasted suit, a light blue shirt and a black figured four-in-hand tie, went to the U.S. commissioner's office where he posted a bond signed by Maj. Gen. Ralph E. Truman, ret., a cousin of former President Truman.

Connelly left the federal building immediately. He appeared terse and grim, obviously shaken by the verdict.

When jury foreman Herbert A. Giesler of Ste. Genevieve, Mo., reported to the court the jury had reached a verdict there was a rush to the courtroom by spectators and others who had been waiting for the verdict.

3 Survivors Of Tugboat Are Rescued

Four Crew Members Of May Dee Still Missing in Sound

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Three survivors from the sinking of the tug May Dee, which went down off the Mississippi coast yesterday during a tropical storm, were picked up early today. Four men still were missing.

The tug O. J. Senac, out of Morgan City, La., rescued the three men northwest of the point where the May Dee went down. Last night the tug Cormorant had picked up eight men from the rough waters south of Bay St. Louis, Miss.

Rescue ships roved over the Mississippi Sound during the night searching for survivors.

The 60-foot May Dee, owned by Stevens and Co. Inc., of New Orleans, sank in Grand Island Channel, about ten miles east of the Mississippi line as Gulf tides reached their highest point since the disastrous hurricane of 1947.

Clay Calhoun, general manager of the Stevens firm, said the May Dee went down while trying to rescue seven men from the barge. The May Dee was swamped and its eight-man crew was thrown into the water along with the seven men from the barge.

Calhoun said the names of the 15 men were not immediately available. But the rescued included the May Dee's captain who was not identified.

A radio report monitored by station WGCM at Gulfport from the tug Conrad said the captain was picked up while swimming near a beacon.

A Coast Guard cutter and two other ships continued to search through the night and were joined by two planes and a helicopter at daybreak.

The eight men on the barge wore life jackets, the Coast Guard said.

The barge from which the seven men jumped to the May Dee was equipped with living quarters. It was with the May Dee and another tug on a dredging operation near Cat Island.

The storm moved through the interior of south Mississippi last night, with heavy rains heralding the center.

Red China Loosens Grip on Literature

HONG KONG (AP)—Red China's government says it has loosened up the Marxist straitjacket in which the country's literature, art and science has been confined for the past seven years.

The party's Central Committee announced that intellectuals may now borrow from the capitalist system itself if the knowledge will prove useful.

The drastic change in Communist Chinese thought is believed motivated by the country's pressing need for more and better scientists.

Senator Makes Appeal to Ike On Drouth Aid

ST. JOSEPH (AP)—The worsening northwest Missouri drought situation continued today as municipal and federal officials sought relief for the area.

Bethany, desperate for water, today asked the St. Joseph Water Co. to supply it with 100,000 gallons of water a day until its water-crisis is over.

At the same time United States Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr. appealed to President Dwight D. Eisenhower to reconsider his decision withholding emergency federal drought aid to northwest Missouri.

Senator Hennings stressed the seriousness of the Bethany situation where only two weeks water supply is on hand at the municipal water plant.

Wayne Kuehl, office manager of the St. Joseph Water Co., told Mayor Raymond K. Wheeler of Bethany the St. Joseph firm is willing and able to supply the water if Bethany can arrange for the transportation.

Bethany officials have been conferring with Burlington Railroad officials concerning the shipments. The rail line operates trains to Bethany from St. Joseph on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. More than 20 tank cars, each with a 10,000 gallon capacity, would have to be used to meet the 100,000-gallon a day requirement.

If the water is brought in by rail, the rate to consumers would be more than 20 times the present price of $1.02 per 1,000 gallons. Bethany officials said the freight and service cost, exclusive of the price of the water, would amount to $20.90 per 1,000 gallons.

Beginner's Permit Required—

Many Persons Operate Cars On Open Highways Illegally

Many persons, through ignorance of the law, operate an automobile illegally on the open roads of Missouri.

The state law requires any person, regardless of whether they are learning or not, to have a permit of some type. Ever since Missouri has had a driver's license law, a beginner has been required by law to have a beginner's permit.

Only exceptions to the rule are drivers who reside in a state that does not require a driver's license and those who drive a farm implement on the open road temporarily. The only time an exception is made to the minimum age is when a person is a student and then the permit is held by the instructor.

Another mis-apprehension is that judges revoke licenses at their will. This is not entirely true since Missouri law states specifically when licenses are to be revoked or suspended.

Some of the instances when judges are compelled to revoke licenses are when considerable property damage has been done and when a driver has been convicted three times in two years on traffic violations.

Another mistaken idea that some drivers have is that you cannot be arrested for passing on a hill where there is no yellow line. Actually the yellow line has no significance except that it is a warning. The state law says that it is a violation to pass another vehicle anywhere the view is obstructed.

A violation that is often the cause of a wreck is the failure

Southeast State Gets Rain from Arkansas

KANSAS CITY, (AP) —A tropical storm moving northward through Arkansas brought showers to southeast Missouri today.

Moderate to heavy amounts of rain are indicated in the south and central sections of the state tonight and Friday. Some rainfall reports this morning included: Cape Girardeau .62, Caruthersville .55, New Madrid .34, Malden .10 and West Plains, .01.

It will be a little cooler in the north and west this afternoon and in the extreme northeast Friday.

Spent Nearly Two Billion On Gas Data

Oil Man Testifies Firm Didn't Lobby Or Pay Legislators

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Texas oil man testified today an organization he heads has spent more than $1,750,000 to put the "facts" about the natural gas bill before the public. But he denied it lobbied Congress members or gave them any money.

Leonard F. McCollum of Houston, Tex., chairman of the Natural Gas and Oil Resources Committee, told Senate lobby investigators in a sworn statement:

"Not one cent of our funds has been spent for compaign contributions or legislative contact work."

McCollum, president of the Continental Oil Co., said the committee was formed Oct. 20, 1954 in New York City to combat "misrepresentations and misunderstandings" of the gas bill. Its single assignment was to conduct "a long-range information and education program," he added.

He said its activities have been financed by "voluntary contributions from companies and individuals in the natural gas and oil industry" and that its expenditures through March 31 of this year totaled $1,753,513.

"Such expenditure, of course, is relatively low," McCollum said, "for a continuing long-range program of education or information which is aimed at a nationwide audience and which employs newspaper and magazine advertising and printed material in a quantity sufficient to reach that mass audience."

McCollum was the first witness called to testify about the activities of the Natural Gas and Oil Resources Committee in behalf of the bill to free natural gas producers from direct federal price controls.

Congress passed the bill but it was vetoed by President Eisenhower on Feb. 17.

Eisenhower said he was in sympathy with the objectives of the measure but felt he should disapprove it because of what he termed questionable activities by a small segment of the industry. There had been charges in the Senate of excessive lobbying both for and against the bill.

McCollum's committee is one of eight organizations whose activities for or against the bill are being checked, but Sen McClellan (D-Ark) said in advance of the hearing that "there shouldn't be any implication that they're suspicious."

Sarnoff Says NBC TV Lost In First Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert Sarnoff, replying to contentions of "profiteering" by television networks, said today NBC's TV network lost over four million dollars in its first eight years.

The president of National Broadcasting Co. was testifying before the Senate Commerce Committee which is considering proposals for federal regulation of radio-TV networks.

Sarnoff said that last year was the first that NBC's TV network made money—what he termed a "modest" cumulative net income of $2,315,000.

"These facts show," Sarnoff said, "that any claim of exorbitant profits from this high risk business is not in accordance with the economic realities."

Sen. Bricker of Ohio, top Republican on the Commerce Committee, has contended that NBC and CBS are making fabulous profits and have established an "economic stranglehold" on the TV industry. Bricker suggested that TV networks be brought under federal regulation.

Sarnoff said regulation would only "upset the delicate balance of network advertising, affiliation relationships and service to the public."

"Moreover," he said, "various types of regulation which have been proposed could not be effected without regulating advertisers.

"Such a step would raise the most serious problems, not only for television, but for the American enterprise system."

May Include Facts About The Nautilus

Broadens Agreement Made in July, 1955, On Peace Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has signed an agreement with Great Britain for exchange of information on military atomic engines under which the British presumably will obtain facts about the pioneer U.S. atomic powered submarine, the Nautilus.

The State Department announced the agreement had been signed yesterday. Press Officer Lincoln White said it was mainly concerned with technical matters.

When newsmen pressed for information today on the wording of the announcement which indicated a considerable broadening of British-American cooperation in the atomic field, White said he would try to get answers in the course of the day.

The agreement was signed by British Ambassador Sir Roger Makins, Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) and Deputy Assistant Secretary of State C. Burke Elbrick.

The technical effect of the new agreement was to amend an agreement made by the United States and Britain on July 21, 1955 "on peaceful uses of atomic energy," the announcement said.

The agreement then contained this wording which White was unable to amplify:

"The fact of this amendment is to broaden the scope within which exchanges may take place in two respects:

"(A) as regards materials utilized in the atomic energy programs of the two countries, and

"(B) information regarding military package power reactors and other military reactors for the propulsion of naval vessels, aircraft, and land vehicles."

The agreement must, by law, lie before Congress for a 30-day period before it becomes effective.

White said he understood that the reference to materials used in atomic energy programs meant that if the British had developed some form of radioactive material which the United States did not have the United States might get access to it.

Tentative Date Is July 12—

Chamber Plans Sedalia Baseball Appreciation Day

The Chamber of Commerce coffee and doughnut session Thursday morning at the Hotel Bothwell centered around the great American sport, baseball, at the local level.

What happened to the Kansas City Athletics Sedalia Day plans? They have been abandoned to pay homage to the local baseball teams from the Mites on up to the Sedalia Ball Club in the semi-pro class.

So all the money and the enthusiasm that was going into the Kansas City trip will now be put into Sedalia Baseball Appreciation Day and a big parade downtown in the afternoon will be followed by games starting with the Little League, the American League against the National League, the Babe Ruth League, the Ban Johnson League and then a game against a strong semi-pro team, maybe one of the sport fan's favorite enemies, like Jefferson City.

To prove that it is a good team the Sedalia Athletics have been invited to the National Semi-Pro Tournament to be held in Wichita, Kan., the first part of August and is one of only four teams in the entire United States invited to participate. All other teams in the tournament must win a state tournament in order to play. This is a distinct honor and the Sedalia ball club has accepted the invitation.

The tentative date of the Sedalia Baseball Appreciation Day has been set for Thursday, July 12, and Clinton Muller, director of the public relations division of the Chamber of Commerce, will be in charge of the parade. Quite a parade it will be, too, with every baseball player from the semi-pros on down in uniform.

Harry Naugel, director of the retail division of the Chamber of Commerce, presided at the meeting. Plans were made for a promotion by the merchants who will pay so much toward the fund and receive a quota of tickets according to the amount they put in the fund. These tickets will then be distributed to their customers as the merchant wishes.

Jack Cunningham, general chairman of the public relations division, who with Muller had been planning the Kansas City trip, is working to make the day one of the biggest events of Sedalia activities.

"A ball club should not only be dressed nice but act nice" commented Ivan Berry, "and that is what the Sedalia Semi-Pro Club does. It is a club to be proud of."

Ike Expresses Hope for Fast Reunification

President Receives German Chancellor In Hospital Room

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower told German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in a 10-minute hospital meeting today he hopes for early action on reunification of Germany "to liberate the 17 million Germans" in the Eastern zone.

Eisenhower, clad in pajamas and sitting up in a chair, received the 80-year-old German leader in the President's room at Walter Reed Army Hospital.

With them were Mrs. Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles, and an interpreter, Henry Kellerman of the State Department.

Adenauer left immediately afterward to fly to New York City to continue his unofficial U. S. visit.

It was Eisenhower's first meeting with anybody outside of his personal and official families and medical personnel since his operation for an abdominal obstruction last Saturday.

The brief session followed what the doctors reported as Eisenhower's best night since he underwent surgery.

Both Adenauer and Dulles, speaking briefly for newsmen and photographers, described the President's recovery as "a miracle."

"I have asked the doctor to explain this miracle," Adenauer said, "and he has said it is a healthy organism."

Dulles said Eisenhower "personally brought up" the question of German reunification.

Journey Has Young Campaign Managers

CLINTON, Mo. (AP)—Kelso Journey, Clinton attorney, feels he is well set for his campaign seeking the Democratic nomination for state senator from the 31st district.

Just after he filed, he told friends his 11-year-old twin daughters would be his campaign managers. But his two other children demanded similar recognition so he added Sandra Lynn, 13, and Jim, 4, to the staff.

"I should be all right," Journey said. "I now have four campaign managers and only two opponents in the primary."

Porter's Wink Gives Teller Robbery Hint

NEW YORK (AP)— A tiny, pretty woman bank teller, tipped off by a courageous porter's wink as she came to work this morning, thwarted a Queens bank holdup by two tough-talking, heavily armed bandits.

The teller, Rose Wing, 5-foot, 25-year-old Chinese, ran screaming from the bank.

The two robbers who had been holding porter Arthur Hampton at gun and knife point and threatening to kill head teller Peter Rufolo if he didn't give the bank vault combination, raced from the bank.

The bank, a branch of the Chemical Corn Exchange Bank, is situated in a heavily congested district of Queens.

The holdup men got away.

They had appeared at the bank when the porter came to work at 7 a.m. They stuck a gun in his back and ordered: "Go ahead—don't stall. Don't do anything that isn't right or I'll plug you."

At 8:25 a.m., Rufolo came to work and, under orders of the robbers, Hampton let him in.

Just then the woman teller knocked on the door, and Hampton was directed to let her in.

But, he told police later, as he did so "I had a real sad look on my face like I wanted to cry. I winked at her, and when I winked she ran."

This Is Welcome Sight in Kansas

WHEAT HARVEST IN WICHITA AREA—As the 1956 Kansas wheat harvest got underway, these combines cut wide swaths in a field of golden grain near Wichita. Early reports in the state indicated harvest yields generally were exceeding pre-harvest estimates. More than 600 boxcars were needed at Wichita as grain came into the city from nearby fields. Estimates of eight to 20 bushels an acre are expected from the area. (NEA Telephoto)

Gifts for Today's Bride Should Follow Her Ideas

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

If the wedding gift is for the home it should be practical and useful. Keep in mind that it will be displayed, and the bride would like her gift table to look pretty.

Favorite gifts for the home include linens, silver and electrical appliances. So many gifts fall into the latter category that stainless steel showers are becoming popular.

A good idea is to find out if the bride has a favorite metal that she prefers. If she is accessorizing with copper it wouldn't do to fill in odd pieces such as ash trays or planters in brass.

Cooking ware is available in steel, copper, porcelain enamel or iron, depending on the bride's preference. Popular, too, now is stainless steel flatware for the table. Then there are the appliances — blender, broiler, clock, coffee grinder, toaster, knife sharpener, juice extractor, ice cream freezer, food mixer, pressure cooker, all for the kitchen.

The most popular silver gifts are candlesticks, candelabra or hurricane lamps. A new breakdown candelabra may be used in 20 different variations. A pair of candlesticks turn upside down to become vases. Another candlestick can be fitted with a small tray on top to become a compote.

Larger gifts in silverplated holloware might be vegetable dishes, well-and-tree platters and gravy sets. Bread and sandwich trays, sugar and creams are other good choices.

Silver bread and butter plates have many uses from canape service and coasters to ash trays and candy dishes. Casseroles, trivets and silent butlers are good gifts too. Ditto flatware in her pattern choice. A carving set to match her place settings would also delight the young homemaker. A tea or coffee service is the ultimate in bridal gifts. A chafing dish is another idea worth considering.

Linens are always welcome gifts, particularly if you are aware of the bride's colors. Candy striped sheets and pillow cases, decorative bath towels, kitchen towels and handsome guest towels are all useful. China in her favorite pattern or a china demi-tasse or tea service would please any bride. Odd salad plates are popular gifts.

Hot, Humid Weather Continues in Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Much of the nation continued to steam today in hot and humid weather.

The Weather Bureau promised little relief for most areas, although scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers were forecast.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the high 60s to more than 80 after yesterday's highs which ranged to 100 or more and set records in some sections.

Chicago had 95.4 yesterday, a record for the date. Atlantic City, N.J., had 95, breaking a 76 year old mark. Newark had 94, which tied the record.

Other highs included Minneapolis-St. Paul 100, Marquette, Mich., 99, Detroit 96, Baltimore 100, Des Moines and Milwaukee 95, Phoenix 107, Albuquerque 100, and El Paso, Tex., 102.

The weather was fair over most of the country. However, a storm center from the Gulf of Mexico brought widespread rains to the Gulf Coast, with the rain spreading northward into the lower Mississippi River Valley.

The Red Cross disaster service provided rehabilitation aid to an average of one family every 75 minutes during 1954.

New Argentine Officials May Have Control

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Argentina's provisional government appeared confident today it has the country well under control.

This was the conclusion drawn from the lifting of the martial law imposed during last weekend's revolt. But one Cabinet member said privately it is known that not all the active enemies of the government have been executed or arrested.

Firing squads carried out 27 death sentences under the state of martial law, and the revocation order said spcifically there would be no more executions. The emergency decree was put in effect shortly after the revolt broke out Saturday.

The Cabinet minister said President Pedro Aramburu's regime was trying to get rid of disaffected members of the armed forces, while at the same time endeavoring to assure labor the government is not antiworker.

He said the government is aware that many supporters of ousted President Juan Peron still can be found among the workers, but it believes their influence is diminishing.

Government spokesmen have blamed diehard Peronistas and Communist elements for starting the revolt.

Som 800 persons now are in custody on charges of plotting or participating in the fight against the Aramburu government.

The latest announced arrests those of two army officers at the city of Rosario. Police there seized retired Gen. Enrique Ludgan and a Col. Frascogna.

Ludgan was mentioned in Rebel radio broadcasts as one of the leaders of the rebellion.

It was widely believed that the rebellion broke out prematurely after police seized a courier carrying a suitcase full of plans. Some officials who have studied seized documents reported the plans were expertly drawn up but poorly carried out.

Aramburu in an interview told Copley News Service Correspondent Russell Brines the uprising was inspired by "Communist organs outside the country." He indicated he meant Red groups in other Latin-American countries.

Father's Day Is Chance To Get Dad 'Spruced Up'

THAT'S MY POP! Junior looks on with honest admiration as Dad shows off his handsome new sports shirt of American viscose rayon in a bold plaid — light-weight, cool and washable.

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Fathers day offers the family a perfect excuse for sprucing up Dad, who may be inclined to lounge around the house looking like a refugee from a rummage sale.

Probably he wouldn't go and buy a handsome sports shirt for himself, being shy that way, but he'll take pride in wearing one presented as a gift by his loving family.

When shopping for shirts for Dad, there are a few things to bear in mind, however, to wit:

1. For goodness sake, be sure about his correct size before you start out to buy a shirt. For a business shirt with a collarband, you must know collar size and sleeve length. For an open-necked, short-sleeved sports shirt you have a little more leeway, being required to know whether Dad takes a small, medium, large or extra large size.

2. Pay a little heed to Dad's tastes. If he's an ultra-conservative don't try to force him into a shirt of rainbow hues. On the other hand, you can introduce him gradually to gayer styles by starting with something that is smart but not shocking, such as a handsome check or cross-bar pattern on a neutral ground.

3. Bone up on the new fabrics available in men's sports shirts. There are good-looking, practical and thriftily priced shirts in such miracle fabrics as orlon and cotton, nylon blends, dacron, and rayon, in addition to the classic cottons, wools, linens and silks.

4. Look at the fabric label before you buy. It will tell you the fiber content of the fabric and will give directions for washing or cleaning.

5. Select a pattern and color that will suit Dad. If he's been putting on weight, select vertical stripes rather than a big plaid or block pattern. If he's a small man don't make the pattern too large. If he's tall he can wear bold designs.

6. Take note of the new styling of sports shirts, in which the most important trend is the Italian cut, with wider collar and a loose, broadshouldered look which is highly flattering to most men.

Marquee Smashes Near Six People on Walk

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cables holding a 40-foot marquee over the entrance of a downtown Cincinnati hotel snapped during a severe storm last night, letting the massive marquee crash to the sidewalk. Six persons were cut by glass.

None of the six was trapped under the metal and glass marquee of the Sheraton-Gibson Hotel. But at least two of them were shoved through a restaurant window which was shattered.

It was not known whether a lightning bolt or an accumulation of rainwater caused the collapse of the front part of the marquee.

Animal Disease Lab Seeks Location Site

COLUMBIA, Mo., (AP) — A proposed $18,915,000 federal animal disease laboratory for which Washington is seeking a site has attracted bids from St. Joseph and Columbia, in Missouri.

Sen. Hennings (D-Mo) has endorsed St. Joseph, but Columbia civic leaders yesterday asked him to reconsider.

"Other states are making a unified presentation behind their veterinary college cities," Glenn Kelly, president of the chamber of commerce, said.

The state veterinary school is located on the University of Missouri campus.

Hollywood Receives Lord Nugent Slowly

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Lord David James Nugent, seventh baron of Clonlost, embarked on a new venture today after failing in his attempt to land a starring role in a television series.

The 37-year-old British nobleman, far from downhearted at the collapse of his plans, adjusted his monocle and announced that he was about to begin making a movie about Hollywood.

Just in case something unforeseen should crop up, he added, he has also taken a job as a sales clerk in an antique store. He plans to live here permanently, he said.

Nugent came over from England several months ago accompanied by a great deal of fanfare about the proposed television series, but the plan failed for lack of a sponsor.

Best Seller that's hard to beat

This '56 Buick is packed with new features—and priced close to the smaller cars!

Buick SPECIAL 4-Passenger 4-Door Riviera

WANT SOME QUICK FACTS on the big news in automobiles today—news that can guide you to a smart move and a real smart buy?

Then listen—it won't take long.

The 1956 Buick has so many new developments—in styling—in power—in performance—in ride and handling—that it is, literally, the best Buick yet. That's Fact No. 1.

And Fact No. 2 proves it: Buick today is more strongly entrenched than ever in the top three of the nation's best sellers—outselling all other cars in America except two of the well-known smaller cars.

One big reason for this success is the strapping new Buick SPECIAL—like the one pictured here.

It's priced right close to those smaller cars—but, like every '56 Buick, it's a whale of a lot more new car for the money.

It cradles a big, new 322-cubic-inch V8 engine that's record-high in power and compression, and crammed with engineering news even the costly cars can't claim.

It makes the most of every bit of power with a new version of Variable Pitch Dynaflow* that's the most efficient yet. With a new development the engineers call "double regeneration," Dynaflow gives you great new acceleration from the first thrifty inch of pedal pressure. Even before you switch the pitch.

And this '56 Buick cushions you in the softest ride ever. Shows an uncanny sense of direction on every curve and turn. Puts a whole new feeling of safety, security and solidity into every mile you drive.

So before you buy any car—catch up on the latest news. Come try a '56 Buick. When you see how much new automobile your money can buy, we don't think you'll ever settle for less.

New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.*

8 Russians Delayed By Bomb Scare

NEW YORK (AP) — Eight homeward-bound Russian church leaders were delayed four hours by a phony bomb scare at Idlewild Airport but took off early today after the all-clear was given.

The Russian clergymen and 29 other passengers left on a KLM Royal Dutch Airlines Constellation at 1:50 a. m., for Amsterdam, Holland, after a search of the plane by the police bomb squad.

The Russian clerics spent 11 days in the United States.

The group, including Metropolitan Nikolai of Moscow, were already seated in the plane when an airline passenger clerk received an anonymous telephone call that a bomb had been placed aboard.

The churchmen and the other passengers were led from the plane, and it was taxied to a remote section of the field. Police also examined all baggage and checked the surrounding area.

Nikolai later said the Russians had not been worried.

Before the bomb scare, Nikolai had told newsmen at the airport: "We don't have as wide a range of activities as you do here because we work alongside of the atheists who carry on their anti-religious propaganda, and we have to meet it."

When asked about this apparent reference to Russian Communists, the Metropolitan said the "atheists" present a "formidable" obstacle to churchs in Russia.

The Russian clergymen were invited to the United States by the National Council of Churches, the nation's largest Protestant and Eastern orthodox group. A group of American church leaders visited Russia recently to start the exchange.

Nikolai said he was leaving with "the richest, happiest and varied impressions," and that the Russians' visit laid "the foundation of our friendship" which will be followed by "further contact for further strengthening our brotherly fellowship."

The Russian delegation and the National Council of Churches had said earlier in a joint statement that progress had been made toward mutual understanding but there still are disagreements betwen the church leaderships of the two countries.

Sleek Swimsuits for Summer Days Are Trim

Cutting a fine figure in a swimsuit is not difficult this summer. Suits have sleek lines that show off the figure to good advantage. Caltex of California gives "U" camisole treatment to front and back of elasticized faille suit (left) that is also cut "little-boy" shorts style. We show it in orange but it also comes in navy. Her movie camera is no bigger than the palm of a hand, weighs far less than two pounds. Crisp summer patterns with the look of pretty cottons are the signature for these Rose Marie Reid suits (right). Suit at left has a posey pattern while the other suit is in mitred stripes that narrow down a waistline.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — This summer, the girl on the beach needn't have a perfect figure in order to look pretty in a swimsuit.

The built-in bra (and even the built-in girdle) are signs that designers and manufacturers realize that all girls are not endowed by nature with perfect forms. A girl may need help in fooling her public and certainly she needs it when she dons a swimsuit.

Higher neckline cuts and a generally more covered-up look are the marks of the 1956 swimsuit. Add to these the little boy shorts and sleek lines and you've a picture of smooth femininity.

Some suits even have little, detachable white collars. There are many high camisole or bateau necklines, many V-necklines.

Cleancut fit is generally achieved by elasticizing. The boys' shorts-type leg adds to the trim, tapered look.

Fabrics range from dotted swiss and the cotton knits to embroidered cotton eyelet and the nubby or slick wools.

Electronics Industry Eyes Economy With Split View

By SAM DAWSON

CHICAGO (AP) — The electronics industry—sprawling all the way from parts for guided missiles to TV sets and automatic washers — is eying the general economy warily today. Here, where perhaps a third of the nation's output centers, they stress a sharp cleavage in outlook.

That part of the industry dealing with the public directly—TV-radio and many home appliances — is on the soft side, waiting for the consumer to regain all the confidence in the future he showed last year.

But that part supplying industry and the military sees nothing to fear just now but the remote chance of a real recession.

Sales of TV sets and many home appliances are down from last year, and inventories are heavy, although some of the TV companies here say rather smugly they are in a better position than the auto industry because they played the production side of the game more cautiously. Plant shutdowns and layoffs are sprinkled through that part of the industry that deals with the consumer. And price cutting at the retail level is notable.

Some of the companies here have full lines. They make TV and radio and also ranges, refrigerators, built-in ovens, washing machines. Others specialize, say, in just TV and radio. In both categories, most supply both the consumer and industry and the military, making up in industrial and defense sales. Some show curious deviations in the ratio of profits to sales.

Motorola reports higher sales but slightly lower earnings in the first quarter of this year. Zenith Radio reports both sales and earnings lower. Admiral, with a drop in sales, reports higher first quarter profits.

Industry spokesmen have a number of explanations for the slump in TV set sales, especially of the larger sets. The consumer may be playing it cautious just now, disturbed by recession talk, or he may already have all the time payments he can handle.

Others are putting their bets on the new portable TV sets to pull the industry back onto the uphill track this fall.

Warm Weather Blouses Mean Washing, Good Fabrics Are Easily Designated

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — American women long ago learned that blouses are the ideal way to stretch a wardrobe. But they like their blouses fresh, crisp, pretty and easy to care for.

Because they like to own many blouses, they like them moderately-priced with an expensive look. This means that they appreciate fine detailing in both blouses and shirts, coupled with the tailoring that is the hallmark of American ready-to-wear.

Best way to give your blouse wardrobe the right care is to check each hangtag when you buy, then follow the directions exactly. If the tag says "dry clean," don't decide that you'll whisk it into the suds just once to see what will happen. Something will happen all right but you won't like it.

Similarly, if the tag says you can wash the blouse by hand and press it with a warm iron, you know that you can safely do just exactly that.

We show here two blouses from the current Judy Bond collection that offers a fresh, new look. Shining silk broadcloth (left) makes a beige blouse decorated with embroidered quills and droplets of color. This is a washable blouse.

Rayon linen makes blouse (right) that has all-over Greek key design. Key design is repeated in smaller size in front border and collar trim.

Decorates With Roses At Ladies Aid Dinner

Since one thinks of roses for the month of June, Mrs. Fred Wagner used the theme of roses for the table decoration last Thursday, June 7, when the St. Paul's Lutheran Ladies Aid met for its business and social meeting. A large bouquet of red roses centered the long dining table with a miniature basket of red rose bud and red and white candy at each plate. The napkins also carried out the theme with red roses in the corner. To complete the beauty, a very pretty white cake decorated in red, was placed in front of the Rev. Walter Strickert, in honor of his birthday. On the cake was inscribed in red, "Happy Birthday Rev. Strickert." The cake and also a gift with a card signed by all there came as a surprise to the pastor.

The hostesses, Mrs. Otto Dieckmann and Mrs. E. C. Schlichting served ice cream topped with strawberries and coffee with the cake to 24 members and seven guests, Mrs. Charles Wingate, Mrs. Dave Miller, Mrs. Wagenknecht, Mrs. Sam Lutjen, Mrs. Claus Bruns, Rev. Strickert and daughter, Dotty.

After the devotional given by Rev. Strickert, a film was presented, "Blue Ribbon Diploma." The film took the group on a tour through the St. Paul's College in Concordia and it was interesting to see what the students are accomplishing.

The society was very happy to have Mrs. Sam Lutjen join them as a new member.

Centennial Program Of Progress for 1956

NEW HAVEN, Mo., (AP) — This Missouri River town is getting ready to hold a centennial celebration as part of its 1956 program of progress.

The first step was the gift to the city of a plot of land by Mrs. Guy Trail for a public park.

The land was the site of New Haven's first church and school. It was 100 years ago when the first Christian church was organized on the site by Mrs. Trail's great grandfather, John Tipton Thurmon, and other pioneer citizens.

In the centennial celebration, to be held Sept. 1 and 2 under the sponsorship of the junior chamber of commerce, a historical pagant will emphasize the Missouri River's influence on the growth of the community.

John Coulter, scout and hunter for the Lewis and Clark expedition, settled near New Haven and is claimed as the town's most renowned pioneer.

Democrats Quote Nixon On Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats on the Senate Investigations subcommittee are quoting 1951 statements by Vice President Nixon in arguing their right to investigate the affairs of Murray M. Chotiner, his 1952 campaign manager.

Nixon, then a senator and a member of the subcommittee, asserted that the group had a right to inquire into dealings with the government by two attorneys who also were high Democratic campaign strategists. "The public generally is entitled to know what attorneys represent concerns who are operating before government agencies," he said.

Chotiner has appealed to members of Congress to halt what he terms a "political fishing expedition" by the subcommitte into his affairs and those of law clients he has represnted before the government since the Eisenhower administration took office.

There have been indications that a clash may ensue between Democratic and Republican members of the subcommittee over the inquiry. The Democrats have not accused Chotiner of any wrongful act. Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) has argued there is no evidence of any and that the inquiry should be dropped.

Subcommittee staff members have been delving into Chotiner's affairs since his name came out as a former lawyer for some Army uniform manufacturers whose contracts it was investigating.

Chotiner has been active in GOP campaigns in California for years.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), the subcommittee chairman, has declined to comment publicly about Chotiner's denunciations of the investigation.

From an authoritative subcommittee source, however, it was learned that the Democrats have dug out 1951 statements by Nixon and are prepared to use them as an argument for demanding a list of Chotiner's clients and other details. This source stipulated that he not be named.

Looking for Death Cause of Bridegroom

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — President Airline officials were trying to find out today how a honeymooning bridegroom happened to drop to his death from a plane more than a mile in the air.

The victim, identified as Oren A. Pruitt, 38, of Charlotte, was said by neighbors to have been married Tuesday — just a day before his death — to Blande Tidd, also of Charlotte. The neighbors said the couple was honeymooning.

Pruitt's body — described by police as "broken all to pieces" — was found in a church graveyard near Shelby after he plummeted from the plane while it was flying at an estimated 6,000 feet.

John Newell, Pedimont's agent here, said Pruitt apparently was swept out of the plane when a cabin door opened unexpectedly as he was walking toward the men's room in the rear. Newell said it probably would not be known until sometime today why the door flew open.

Relax for A Cool and Pretty Summertime

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Does the woman exist who looks forward to spending a hot summer over an ironing board?

Hardly. Still, we all want to look neat and crisp and as pretty as possible. For some of us, it's an absolute must. For others, it's a matter of personal pride.

Whether you work in an office or at home, there are people to look at you and to criticize. The criticism may not be voiced but it exists. Your boss. Your fellow workers. Your husband, your neighbors, your friends.

Well, then. You don't want to iron the summer away. There's always the dry cleaner. As a matter of fact, this is a fine solution if you can afford it. If you can't, the fabrics that require little or no ironing provide the happy answer.

We show two such here. Tattersall-checked fabric (left) of dacron-and-cotton is used for a lightweight, porous dress with soft, classic lines and front ruching. Vera Maxwell does a striped dress (right) in textured nylon and acetate with wrapped midriff in Japanese obi style.

Negro Leaders Advise Caution In Two Cities

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Negro leaders advised caution today in two Florida cities where there has been talk of bus boycotts similar to those at Montgomery, Ala., and Tallahassee, Fla.

At Columbia, S.C., attorneys considered whether to appeal dismissal of a case involving segregation on city buss.

The Rev. Enoch D. Davis, leader of a Negro citizens cooperative committee at St. Petersburg, Fla., requested a meeting with the City Council to discuss equal seating of all races on city owned buses.

He said yesterday the meeting is being sought to avert the possibility of a bus boycott similar to those at Montgomery and Tallahassee.

City Manager Ross E. Windom said St. Petersburg will enforce segregation on buses under state laws requiring Negroes to seat from the rear and white persons from the front.

At Miami, Fla., the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People issued a statement last night advising "all citizens to comply with existing city and state laws governing seating on buses."

The meeting followed the arrest of two Negroes during the week on charges of disorderly conduct for failing to move to the rear of buses.

Both the Montgomery and Tallahasse bus boycotts started after Negroes were arrested for refusing to move to the rear of buses. The Montgomery boycott has been in progress more than six months and the Tallahasse boycott since May 28. Both have caused city bus systems to increase fares and cut services in efforts to meet operating costs.

Most of the Arab bloc nations are Moslem.

Two Teen-age Stowaways Have One Plush Day

HONOLULU (AP)—Two teen - age stowaways, with less than $4 between them, had one day of plush living in Honolulu, then headed homeward by plane.

Joan Damon of East Palo Alto, Calif., and freckled Dudley Taylor of Redwood City departed with new tooth brushes, bathing suits and a few apprehensions.

Their parents paid about $300 for their brief trip. It started Friday aboard the liner Lurline.

Although Joan's mother, Mrs. Nadine L. Damon, had said, "I applaud her; I've wanted to do that all my life," the 17-year-old girl said:

"It's not going to be easy to face our parents or the kids in school."

Both she and Dudley are to be graduated from Menlo - Atherton High School today.

The two arrived, bright and smiling, on the Lurline yesterday morning.

They told reporters they got aboard in San Francisco "just to look around.

"We thought we could get off on a launch out by Golden Gate, but it didn't work out that way," Dudley said.

They were chaperoned by a wealthy vacationing Los Angeles businessman Earle C. Anthony, who said he wanted them to see a little bit of Hawaii.

He treated them to lunch at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel, bathing suits, swimming and surfing at Waikiki and dinner.

Anthony said "I just wanted to show a couple of teen-agers a good time before they go home and face the music."

Brazilian Officials Visit Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, (AP) — Kansas City played host today to a delegation of 65 Brazilian officials, here for a tour of 10 U. S. cities. Several brought along their wives and children.

The gay throng, representing 45 municipalities within the Brazilian state of Sao Paulo, was invited here by Mayor H. Roe Bartle and the Kansas City Commission for International Relations and Trade which visited in Latin America last February.

"We have been overwhelmed by the tremendous warmth and receptions we have been accorded, said Dr. Aniz Badra, spokesman for the visitors.

"We have read much and seen many movies about the United States, but what we have seen so far on the trip has far exceeded our expectations."

The Brazilians, who arrived yesterday, will leave tomorrow for Nashville, Tenn.

"We expect to benefit much by what we have learned and seen," Dr. Badra said. "We are very grateful for the opportunity we have had."

Will Arrive In Soviet On June 23

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Nathan Twining and nine Air Force officers, including an operations expert for the Strategic Bomber Force, will land in Russia June 23 for as good a look as they can get at Soviet airpower.

They were invited to watch a fly-over of samples from the Reds' swiftly expanding and thoroughly modern jet air force. How much more they may see is in doubt.

Up to this morning, Moscow reportedly had not sent along any detailed program.

What the Air Force visitors are permitted to see in Russia probably will set a pattern for any return visit by Soviet air officials to the United States.

If Twining and his officers should be limited to seeing the Moscow air show, that could mean that a visiting Russian delgation might be permitted to see only something like the aircraft show at Oklahoma City next fall. But if the Soviet government takes the Americans to look over the Russian aircraft industry and air bases, the way might be paved for a similar tour by Soviet visitors.

Among those who will make the trip to Russia with Twining is Brig. Gen. William H. Blanchard, the operations chief for Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, chief of the Strategic Air command and boss of this country's long-range bomber fleet.

University Students Demand Red Loosening

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times said today university students in Czechoslovakia have confronted their government with demands for greater democracy that are said to be the most sweeping submitted to a Communist regime in years.

Harrison Salisbury, former Times correspondent in Moscow, said the text of the drastic demands has just reached the United States. They include requests for a factual press, circulation of foreign litrature, an end to jamming of Western broadcasts and no more sycophancy before things Soviet.

Salisbury said the Prague government could hardly grant the demands without upsetting the whole basis of Red rule.

Red Cross Officials To Moscow for Visit

NEW YORK (AP)—President Ellsworth Bunker and three other officials of the American Red Cross are enroute to Moscow for a two-week visit—the first time a head of the American organization has visited Russia since 1902.

FAITH... HOPE AND CHARITY

Francis of Assisi, Patron Saint of the Academy and Order, whose statue graces the entrance to the School.

On November 22, 1892, a party of five nuns left the Convent of St. Ottilia, Grimmenstein, Switzerland, to establish a convent and school in America. A year later the school was opened in Nevada, Missouri with twenty children.

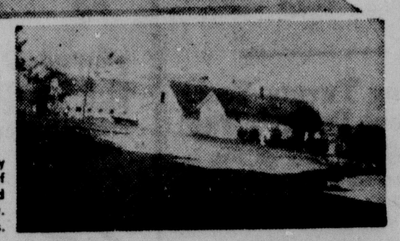
The convent and school continued to grow until a September night in 1915, when the building was destroyed by fire. But with the help of friends the convent and chapel were rebuilt.

In 1940, the St. Francis Academy and High School was opened. Another building containing additional classrooms and recreation areas was constructed in 1947.

Today, St. Francis Academy is a high school for girls and is part of the Franciscian Order, Kansas City Diocese. The teaching order of the Catholic Church includes 54 sisters who, in addition to St. Francis, teach in grade schools at Lexington, Higginsville, Martinsville, Independence, and Mary's Home near Jefferson City.

Missouri Public Service Company is proud to serve St. Francis Academy, an institution that has faithfully served the religious and educational needs of its students for many years.

St. Francis Academy for Girls is Also Headquarters for the Franciscian Teaching Order of Catholic Nuns in This Area.



From a humble beginning, arduous work by the Sisters and assistance from citizens of Nevada have transformed the School and Campus into an excellent facility. Here is pictured farm buildings.

New Medical Instrument Is Developed

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

CHICAGO (AP)—A look-see test can save many women from unnecessary surgery to remove the womb, a physician said today.

It is done with a pencil-thin instrument that permits direct vision of the interior of the womb or uterus. With light from a tiny bulb on the end of the instrument, the physician can see whether tumors are really present that call for a hysterectomy, or removal of the uterus. Photographs can be taken through it.

Hundreds of American women daily have hysterectomies. Their tumors are quite often found to be a benign or harmless kind, fibroid tumors, growing in such a way that they would not cause trouble. Many of the women are young enough still to bear children.

The unique instrument, the hysteroscope, is being shown in an exhibit at the American Medical Assn.'s annual meeting by Drs. William B. Norment and C. Henry Sikes of Greensboro, N.C.

Fibroid — noncancerous — tumors are often found during physical exams.

If they are not large and are growing only on the outside wall of the uterus, they can be left alone, Dr. Norment said. The woman can still bear children. These fibroid tumors disappear after menopause or change of life.

But if the tumors have penetrated through to the inside of the uterus, they cause bleeding and other distress. There can also be a question whether the tumor is really benign, or dangerous. Doctors hesitate to take a chance that it could not be or become dangerous.

The instrument developed by Dr. Norment gives direct vision to learn whether the tumor is on the inside. If not, the operation could be avoided. It can also show whether the bleeding might be due to hormonal upsets that can be treated medically.

Established methods of exploring the interior of the uterus can at times miss because there is no direct vision, Dr. Norment said.

He and Dr. Sykes said the method has saved some women from unnecessary hysterectomies. The instrument is being used by some gyncologists in other cities.

Government Prospect For Netherlands Now

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP)—Another Labor-Catholic coalition government headed by Socialist Premier Willem Drees appeared in prospect for the Netherlands today after the election of a new lower House of Parliament.

Both dominant political groups — the Dutch Labor party and the Catholic Peoples party — gained ground.

The Communists were the biggest losers, dropping from 6 to 4 seats in the 100-member second chamber. Right-wing parties also lost seats.

The Labor party gained four seats, boosting its total to 33. After electing 30 members in the 1952 elections, it had picked up two seats later by absorbing a right-wing Catholic party.

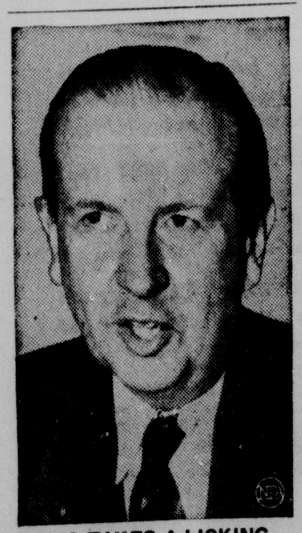
The Labor increase was seen as a personal victory for Drees. It was generally expected that Queen Juliana would ask him to form the new Cabinet with a Catholic as deputy premier.

Residents Restricted To Two Gallons Water

BETHAN, Mo. (AP) — City fathers, with a wary eye on this northwest Missouri town's dwindling municipal reservoir supply, are restricting each resident to two gallons of water a day.

To augment its water, Bethany has tapped three rock quarry pools, exhausted a portion of East Big Creek and even collected seepage in West Big Creek.

This corner of Missouri has suffered most from the recurrent dry spells.



POLIO TAKES A LICKING—There were at least 75 per cent fewer cases of polio among children vaccinated with Salk polio vaccine last year than among unvaccinated youngsters, according to Surgeon General Leonard Scheele, above. Dr. Scheele recommends that vaccination programs continue all summer to give best possible protection.

Escape Car Traps Gas Station Thieves

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP)—A getaway car that wouldn't run trapped four men accused of taking $66 and spark plugs valued at $46 from a service station.

Deputy sheriffs said the men drove into the station and ordered 50 cents worth of gas. While the owner, Ben Cook, pumped the gas three of the men went inside the station.

When their balky car wouldn't start, Cook got a battery and tried to get it going but the men waved him off.

"We'll just push it," they said.

Motorist Saves Crew With Train Language

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP)—E. L. Chapman, brakeman on a New York Central freight train, saw a motorist stopped at a crossing, waving and holding his nose.

Chapman quickly stopped the train. He explained: "That (holding the nose) is the universal language of trainmen to tell of a journal (axle) box burning."

When the train stopped the crew found a journal box had overheated, caught fire and set ablaze a car loaded with creosote-soaked logs. Kalamazoo firemen put out the flames.

The crew didn't learn who the motorist was, but suspect he's a trainman.

North American Rocket Engines Built at Neosho

CANOGA PARK, Calif. (AP) — North American Aviation announced jointly with the Air Force today that a 13 million dollar government-owned plant now under construction at Neosho, Mo., which it will operate will manufacture large rocket engines for guided missiles.

North American's operation of the Missouri plant, scheduled to open late this year, will be done through its Rocketdyne division.

Joseph P. McNamara, who was North American's assistant division manager at Kansas City during World War II, was named manager of the Neosho facility.

The Missouri plant, located two miles south of Neosho, will employ approximately 1,000 workers by early 1957, Rocketdyne's general manager, S. K. Hoffman, disclosed.

The initial annual payroll is expected to be near 5 million dollars, he estimated.

Some Rocketdyne employes from the division's main plant here will be transferred to Neosho, Hoffman added, but said the plant will make use of local personnel and services whenever possible.

Extension for Mokane Water System Ruling

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Customers of the little water plant in Mokane, Mo., have until the first of next week to decide whether they'll buy it or find some other source of supply.

The attorney for Mrs. Ruby Williamson Bonham of Denver said he would wait that long for the 40 customers to decide whether they would go a little higher than the $3,000 they have offered.

The State Public Service Commission ruled earlier that the plant was not subject to the state's public utility regulations and ruled she could shut down today if she wanted to.

New Commander At St. Joe Defense Field

Ordnance Plant May Have Permanent Stay

PARSONS, Kas. (AP)—The Kansas Ordnance Plant has as good a chance for permanent status as any similar plant in the country, representatives of about 10 cities in this area were told yesterday.

The word came from Frank H. Higgins, assistant secretary of the Army for logistics, who came here with technical officers and other visitors to inspect the facility.

Higgins told the southeast Kansas officials and city representatives, seeking to boost employment in the area, the plant will reach an employment level of 700 by August.

Ruth Millett Says---

Mother-in-Law Has Key To Daughter-in-Law Peace

This letter is reprinted for the benefit of women who think it is impossible to get along with one daughter-in-law. It is written by a woman who is mother-in-law to six young wives and loves them all.

"I have six daughters-in-law and I get along just fine with them all. I love them and they seem to love me.

"I just treat them as though they were my own daughters. I don't give them any advice unless they ask for it. I try to help them out whenever they ask for my help, but I wait for them to ask.

"I don't drop in on them. Instead, I keep myself busy and go to their homes only when I am invited.

"I am a widow without income and my daughters-in-law seem as ready to help me as are my sons. They also teach their children to love me. So I think mothers-in-law and daughters-in-law can learn to love each other and help each other if they really want to."

Any mother-in-law who is finding it difficult to get along with a daughter-in-law ought to learn a lot from this letter.

Points to Keep In Mind

For it makes several good points.

Treat your daughter-in-law as though she were your own daughter. Go easy on advice. Don't smother your daughter-in-law with help, but be ready to lend a hand when your help is asked for.

Keep busy with your own life. Give your daughter-in-law all the privacy she wants and needs, visiting her on invitation only.

Give her full credit for everything she does for you. And most important of all, desire with all your heart to get along with your daughter-in-law.

You've got to really want her love in order to be able to win it. You don't really want her love, if you are critical of her, if you look for hurts, or if you resent her being the center of your son's life.

'Buck' Taylor Quits Democratic Race For Lieutenant Governor

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — J. E. "Buck" Taylor got out of the Democratic race for lieutenant governor yesterday because, he said, he had no time to conduct an intensive campaign for the nomination.

The former state attorney general said definitely he was not "pressured out" of the campaign. That came in answer to a newsman's question since several Republican candidates had charged L. C. Carpenter was forced out of the Democratic race for governor.

Carpenter formally withdrew Tuesday.

Even with Taylor out there still are a half dozen Democrats seeking the nomination for lieutenant governor. They are:

State Sen. Edward V. Long of Clarksville, former State Rep. Tom A. Shockley of Waynesville, Webster County Prosecutor John Hosmer of Marshfield, Samuel Van D. Williams of St. Louis, Charles C. Hurst of Centertown and Harry E. Kemp of St. Louis.

Declines in major crimes here included a drop of 290 to 267 in rape, 1932 to 1677 for robbery and 2209 to 2136 for aggravated assault.

Swedish Alcoholism Raises 200 Per Cent

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Sweden's police force has figured out that you're not drunk until you fall flat and lie prone. Staggers don't count.

Otherwise, the police said today, there aren't enough clinks to house all the eligibles.

The government decided it was time to take soundings since liquor rationing ended in Stockholm last October. It came up with the startling fact that drunkenness has increased by 200 per cent.

NEW YORK FASHIONS IN PARIS: At Printemps, one of Paris' largest department stores, the whole fifth floor is given over to a display of American fashions and other products. Parisians are enthusiastic over the display.

From New York to Paris: Ready-to-Wear Styles

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor

PARIS —(NEA)— In a fashion salute to New York, two of France's largest department stores, Printemps and Galeries Lafayette, are displaying (and selling) American fashions and other products to eager Parisians.

Called "Fifth Avenue in Paris," the exposition occupies one floor at Printemps and two floors at the Galeries Lafayette. Bridging a gap of space and a difference in customs, the exposition proposes to show the French people what Americans wear, the things they use in their homes and their food preferences.

The fllor at Printemps was swarming. It was like a clearance sale at Macy's accompanied by various French versions of Bronx rib-crushers. Not only were there the American goods, there was a further attraction in the fact that the whole floor had been set up to reproduce a New York department store.

Even though there were customs duties, the American products were cheaper than similar French duty-free articles.

French women were fingering American blouses and skirts, cotton dresses and raincoats. French housewives and their husbands were looking at (and buying) household equipment and gadgets of all kinds. Orlon sweaters were big sellers and so was the American lingerie, most of it nylon. (Generally, American nylon is heavier and a better quality than the French equivalent which is more expensive.)

A store official explained that Printemps had had such an exposition last year but that it wasn't as large. This year, it was much bigger with a greater variety in the articles offered.

The popularity of American fashions in a French department store is easily explained. French ready-to-wear is more expensive and not as chic as the American clothes. A simple black suit, with rayon jacket lining, costs $75. For this reason, most French women own sewing machines. The whole fourth floor at Printemps is given over to fabrics. If you can't follow a pattern, the store will cut out your dress or suit for you but it's up to you to take the pieces home and fit them together so that the sleeves go where sleeves should.

In addition, French magazines for women include scaled-down patterns in each edition. But the sizing runs small, medium and large and if you don't correspond to one of these, you're out of luck.

So there's much interest in American ready-made clothes in Paris. After all, few French women can afford $300 to $800 for an original Paris model.

Another big attraction in the exposition is that it gives Parisians a chance to buy imports, American products, something different. It's the same feeling that an American gets stepping from an Air France plane at Orly Field. It's exciting, different and fun.

How to shop for your WHISKEY as carefully as for your CAR

. . . ask these 5 questions:

1. WHO MADE IT? You are entitled to know whom to hold responsible for quality. All our whiskey is labeled "Distilled and Bottled by . . ." Every drop comes from our family-owned distillery.
2. WHAT'S THE MAKER'S REPUTATION? If you can see who he is ask anyone in the business about it. We invite you to ask our competitors' opinion of us and the quality of everything we make.
3. WHAT KIND? Straight, Canadian or Blend? We have never made—and never will—anything but straight Kentucky Sour Mash Bourbon. Costs us more, but it puts the flavor in naturally.
4. WHY THE PRICE YOU ASK? Some prices seem low until you fully understand the values in this business. Our prices are low—considering all you get.
5. WHAT'S THE PROOF? CABIN STILL is bottled at an exact proof which is the balance in our whiskey between "horsepower" and flavor.

Have a chat with your friend the retailer about the straight facts in this whiskey business. More often than not, he'll tell you to buy CABIN STILL—after you have tried it, you'll be glad you did, and thank him for his tip.

Victor Borge In Hour-Long Debut Tonight

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Everybody laughs when Victor Borge sits down to play.

This is because he doesn't play, but only talks about it. Or else he starts to play and then says the heck with it. When expected to play, he doesn't. When no one expects it, he does. He is an artist at keeping an audience off balance, a state an audience enjoys so hilariously that when the show is over everybody is depressed by normalcy.

Well, this evening you might as well cancel other engagements. Because Borge, that most unmelancholy of men ever born in Denmark, is going to play—and fail to play—the piano for an hour on CBS-TV. His first full-length television show, it is entitled Victor Borge's Comedy in Music.

This is a complete steal, Borge admits, on the highly successful one-man Broadway and road show starring Victor Borge. Summoned into town the other day from his farm in Southbury, Conn., and asked to give an explanation of his actions, Borge obviously feared self-incrimination.

He preferred to talk about his Rock Cornish hens. He is one of the biggest raisers and sellers of Rock Cornish hens in the country. It's a curious fate for a man who can't bear to kill anything. He likes flowers, for example, but he can't bear to pick one because he hates to see it die.

He never killed a hen; hirelings perform the task for him. But even that was so painful to him that he invented a gizmo whereby the poor hens are stunned by a slight electrical shock and so are slaughtered painlessly — at least Borge believes it's painlessly; he doesn't like to think about it.

Freezing Younger Chickens

When younger chickens — broilers, fryers, or roasters—are big enough for table use, it is often economical to freeze and store them.

Prepare them carefully, chill promptly, and freeze as soon as cold.

Roasters—Prepare bird as for cooking. Tie legs and wings tight to body to save storage space. Package chilled bird in moisture-vapor-resistant wrapping material. A flexible canvas hammock helps to press wrapping tight against bird and prevents slipping. Fold securely, pressing to drive out air. Heat-seal the ends, or snugly tie them, or seal with cold storage tape. Tie in stockinette.

Broilers—Remove head and feet from dressed bird. Cut along the backbone, open and take out entrails. Cut bird in two along breastbone. Wash well, dry, and chill quickly. Place halves together with two pieces of cellophane between them. Package like roasting chickens.

Fryers—Prepare dressed chickens for frying. Wash, dry and chill. Insert each piece in a fold of cellophane and pack tightly in a carton or package that will be heat-sealed. Use medium sized or small packages to suit family needs.

Giblets—Giblets are best used fresh. If they are to be frozen, clean, wash, dry, and chill them. Put in a separate package for freezing.

Label-mark packages plainly to save guesswork. Give date and contents, such as "meaty pieces of stewing hen," or "fryer breasts." Special stamps, inks, labels, and tape are made for labeling.

Writing labels and making up boxes in advance is convenient and speeds the packaging job. Some packages cannot be labeled after sealing.

Package — Be sure that cellophane or other wrapping materials are moisture-vapor-resistant.

Freeze and Store—Keep packages of chicken in a refrigerator until all are ready for freezing. Freeze as soon as possible.

If you take packaged food to a locker, wrap in newspapers or use an insulated box, to help keep it cold on the way. Have food frozen in fast-freezing room if available, before placing in your locker.

If you have a home freezer, be sure temperature in the freezing compartment is 0 degrees or lower. Place packages against freezing plates or coils, spacing them so air can move between them.

Remember that large or heavily wrapped packages take longer to freeze than those of medium size with only enough wrapping to protect the food.

After freezing, store chicken at 0 degrees or lower.

Freezing Sour Cherries

Whole. Syrup pack is best for cherries to be served uncooked. Sugar pack is preferable for cherries to be used for pies or other cooked products.

Select bright-red, tree-ripened cherries. Stem, sort and wash thoroughly. Drain and pit.

Use one of the following packs:

Syrup pack. Pack cherries into containers and cover with cold 60 or 65 per cent syrup depending on tartness of the cherries. Leave head space. Seal and freeze.

Sugar pack. To one quart (1⅓ pounds) cherries add ¾ cup sugar. Mix until sugar is dissolved. Pack into containers, leaving head space. Seal and freeze.

Crushed. Prepare for packing as for whole sour cherries. Crush coarsely.

To one quart (two pounds) fruit add 1 to 1½ cups sugar depending on sweetness desired. Mix thoroughly until sugar is dissolved. Pack into containers, leaving head space. Seal and freeze.

Puree. Select and prepare for packing same as for whole cherries. Then crush cherries, heat to a boiling point, cool, and press through a sieve.

To one quart (two pounds) fruit puree add ¾ cup sugar. Pack puree into containers, leaving head space. Seal and freeze.

Juice. Select and prepare as for whole sour cherries. Then crush cherries, heat slightly to start flow of juice and strain juice through a jelly bag. Cool, let stand overnight, and pour off clear juice for freezing. Or juice may be packed as soon as it cools, then strained when it is thawed for serving.

Sweeten with 1½ to two cups sugar to each quart of juice or pack without added sugar. Pour into containers, leaving head space. Seal and freeze.

Milk—The Perfect Food

Milk is one of the most important foods. It is the most nearly perfect food and a food for which there is no satisfactory substitute. It is important in the daily diet of persons of all ages. The amounts recommended for good nutrition are one quart each day for children and at least a pint for adults. While the total amount of milk produced might supply the recommended amounts, it is not distributed and consumed in this way. Some are consuming all the milk they need, others are consuming less, or none at all.

Although milk is a liquid food, it contains an average of 13 per cent solids—an amount comparable to the solids content of many fresh fruits and vegetables.

The solids of whole milk contain proteins, fats, carbohydrates, minerals and vitamins. Altogether at least 100 separate chemical components have been identified in milk. No other food supplies so many.

For a moderately active woman a pint of milk can supply: 30 per cent of the protein recommended; 57 per cent of the calicum; 1.6 per cent of the iron; 15.6 per cent of the vitamin A; 15 per cent of the thiamine; 54 per cent of the riboflavin; and 5 per cent of the niacin.

Taffy Float

(A tablespoon of molasses supplies 4½ times as much iron as a cup of milk. These foods make a good combination in a summer "milk shake.")

2 tablespoons molasses
Milk
1 scoop ice cream
(vanilla, coffee or chocolate)

Put molasses in 12-ounce glass; fill ½ full with milk. Add ice cream; stir vigorously. Fill glass to top with milk.

Sedalia Lions Install Their New Officers

The Sedalia Lions Club held installation of officers for the year of 1956-57 at a Ladies Night meeting Wednesday in the Ambassador Room of the Bothwell Hotel. International Counsellor Dr. Herbert H. Scholle, Concordia, was the principal speaker on the program.

Jack Herring, Fayette, chairman of Zone 2, Region 4, of District 26-C, and who is Deputy District Governor - elect of Region 4, was toastmaster at the dinner-meeting.

R. B. "Bob" Cain was installed as president of the club by his brother, Cline Cain, past-president, who also installed all of the officers of the club. Cain succeeds John B. Ellison, to whom he presented the Past-President pin. Ellison presented to Cain the new president's pin.

Other officers installed were: Joe Ruddick, first vice-president; A. B. Warren, second vice-president; Wayne Miller, third vice-president; Tom Baker, secretary; W. C. "Wink" Ream, treasurer; Robert M. "Bob" Overstreet, tail twister; and Al Gardner, Lion tamer. Two members of the board of directors were also installed, E. O. Pasley and Cecil A. Wyett, for two years.

Jack Delph made membership certificate presentations to James Simmons and Al Gloss.

President Ellison presented 100 per cent perfect attendance pins to more than 40 of the club members, one of which was a five-year attendance pin going to Don King.

He then presented to District Governor E. B. Smith the 100 per cent achievement pin on behalf of Director General R. Roy Keaton of Lions International for the completion of his duties as the District Governor for 1955-56.

Reports were given by A. B. Warren on the Crippled Children's Center, Robert "Bob" Cain on the broom sale, and Tom Baker on the finances of the club and activities.

Dr. Scholle then gave his talk. He praised the Sedalia Club on its activities and operations under the fundamentals of Lionism. He also recalled the chartering of the local club and of the state convention which was held here in 1941.

He continued by stating at that time there were but 70 Lions clubs in Missouri, and there are now over 300 Missouri clubs.

"The growth of Lionism in Missouri has been so great," he said "that Sedalia and other outstate cities are unable to handle the state convention. We must now look to St. Louis and Kansas City for our convention cities."

Dr. Scholle also reported on the growth of Lions International, stating there are now more than 500,000 members throughout the world with clubs in more than 70 countries.

International Counsellor D. Kelly Scruton, the first District Governor to come from the Sedalia Club, presented to Governor Smith a plaque on behalf of the local club for its "sincere appreciation and recognition of distinguished service, loyalty, and devotion to the objects and furtherance of Lionism."

He also read several letters commending Lion Smith, and also presented to him the Master Key for memberships obtained for hte Sedalia Club.

Jane Froman Divorces Air Pilot Husband

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The storybook marriage of singing star Jane Froman ended in court today when she divorced the airline pilot who saved her life in a crash in Portugal 12 years ago.

She accused John Curtis Burn, her second husband, of desertion.

The crash which brought them together and led to their romance attracted nationwide interest and a movie was made about her comeback from serious injuries.

District Judge Frank McNamee granted the decree to the singer, who finished a month-long hotel engagement here last week.

The marriage, in Coral Gables, Fla., March 12, 1948, was Burn's first. Miss Froman had been divorced from Donald Ross.

Miss Froman's attorney, Miss Emilie Wanderer, said the hearing, in the judge's chambers, lasted only about five minutes.

Under questioning, Miss Wanderer said, Miss Froman testified "simply that he left her a year ago and they hadn't gone back together."

"The grounds were very simple," the attorney added. "Desertion for a year is one of the grounds for divorce in Nevada."

The attorney said Miss Froman plans to "rest for a while" at the Desert Inn, the hotel where she recently appeared.

The singer announced in New York last February: "John and I have agreed to separate for the present."

Both Miss Froman and Burn were severely injured in 1943 when a Pan - American plane crashed in the Tagus River near Lisbon. It was carrying USO entertainers on a wartime tour of American troops. Twenty-four of 39 persons aboard died.

Burn, aboard the ill - starred plane as an observer, suffered a broken back in the crash. He held Miss Froman above the icy water for nearly an hour, however, before they were rescued.

House of David Wins Game 18-1 Over Athletics

The Sedalia Athletics played good ball, but they were victims of a lot of House of David timber on the ball, and the House won over the locals 18 to 1. The fact the A's had only one error and the Davids none proves the type of ball that was played.

Sedalia's lone run came in the first inning when Bill "Bones" Morgan walked to the plate and hit the first pitched ball over the scoreboard in left-center field. That ended the Sedalia scoring. Sedalia did get eight hits off of a southpaw who was described by one of the A players this way: "He had it. He could stand any of them on their head."

Joe Imhauser started for the A's and was relieved by Bill Arnold, who relinquished the mound duties to Bobby Brown, who finished the game.

The House of David "pepper game," and exhibition of handling the ball prior to the starting of the game, was described as "terrific."

Britain Wins Title In Equestrian Olympics

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Great Britain won the team title and Sweden's Petrus Kastenman, riding Iluuster, captured the individual crown today in the three-day trial of the Equestrian Olympics.

The jumping phase ended the trial in which Kastenman edged 42 horsemen for the gold medal with a low score of 66.53 points. Germany's August Luetke - Westhues took the runnerup position with a 84.87 score nipping Lt. Col. Frank Weldon of Britain who captured third place with 85.48.

America's last remaining survivor in the individual events, Walter G. Staley of Mexico, Mo., was declared out of the competition when his horse Mud Dauber left the course. Staley had given a fine show yesterday in the cross-country phase and had risen from 56th to 10th position. But he had trouble at the enclosed garden obstacle, running through a picket fence and leaving the course, causing automatic elimination.

Say Vaccine Can Be Given In Epidemic

CHICAGO (AP)—A team of Navy doctors reported today that Salk polio vaccine apparently can be given during the height of an epidemic with little or no paralysis-provoking effect of its own.

Capt. John R. Seal of the naval Medical Corps reported on the vaccination of more than 26,010 children and married adults in Navy and Marine service families in Honolulu during what he called a "rather severe" polio epidemic there last fall.

The joint report, made with Naval Capt. Robert S. Poos of Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and Dr. Neal Nathanson of Atlanta, Ga., was prepared for the annual meeting of the American Medical Assn. (AMA).

Dr. Seal said some doctors feared that the act of vaccination during an epidemic might provoke paralysis in persons who might already have been infected with polio virus.

But the results showed, he said, that the "provoking effect, if present at all, was negligible."

Also, he said, the behavior of the epidemic, following the vaccine program, was "consistent with the vaccine being effective, although no conclusive proof of effectiveness was obtained."

Actually, there was a decline in the rate of cases following the launching of the vaccination program, he said, but regardless of whether this decline was due to the vaccine itself, "the vaccine program had a saluatory (sic) effect on morale."

Capt. Poos, when he first detected the outbreak, recommended that Salk vaccine "be given as quickly as possible to all Navy and Marine Corps families residing in Hawaii." About two - thirds of them were inoculated.

Harry Trumans Meet With Belgium's King

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman and his wife, Bess, had a 30-minute audience today with King Baudouin, Belgium's 25-year-old monarch.

They went to the royal palace after an early breakfast and the morning got so crowded Mrs. Truman dropped her original plan to go shopping.

Truman, in formal morning dress, told newsmen after their meeting with Baudouin:

"It was a very pleasant and satisfactory interview, but it is up to the king to report on what was said. There is nothing I can tell you about that.

"I have seen the King before. He came to the White House when I was president."

The touring couple went on today to the Netherlands.

Lacoste Says Rebels Can't Defeat French

ALGIERS (AP)—French Resident Minister Robert Lacoste asserted today that nationalist rebels no longer are capable of staging big operations against French forces in Algeria.

His statement coincided with reports of bombings, knifings and burning of arms throughout the country yesterday. There also were several clashes between rebel bands and French units in which the French reported at least 68 insurgents killed.

"To be sure," Lacoste said in a newspaper interview, "it is far from my thoughts to tell you that confidence and order are re-established."

of a driver to dim his lights while meeting oncoming traffic. The traffic code requires all drivers to dim headlights at a distance of 500 feet in advance of meeting another vehicle.

Another item that would help reduce headon collisions is the yielding of right-of-way to passing vehicles. A motorist is required by law to yield the right-of-way to another vehicle that may be passing, but so often motorists keep driving the same speed and stay in the same path regardless of the danger that might be impending.

The state law makes the owner of an automobile responsible for permitting a person to drive his car without a proper license. Financial responsibility is also placed on the owner as well as the driver of an automobile for any damage incurred.

Even though Missouri does not have a set speed limit, driving through a zone marked with a suggested speed at an excessive rate can place the driver in a position of careless and imprudent driving.

Hal Boyle's Column—

Most Successful Authoress In US Has Writer's Cramp

NEW YORK (AP)—Mary Roberts Rinehart, nearing 80, is suffering from writer's cramp.

This comes as a terrible blow to the onetime nurse who became the most successful woman author in American history.

"I have trouble with my right hand," she said. "It's a chore for me even to write a check today. I do hope it will clear up soon, for I love to work. I'm very much at a loss now that I'm not writing."

Writer's cramp is a rare disease among modern authors. Most use typewriters, some even dictate their stories.

But Mrs. Rinehart is a painstaking craftsman who writes three drafts of every mystery story or novel she turns out by longhand with a fountain pen she has used for 24 years.

That fountain pen is her most cherished possession. She values it even more highly than the Gainsborough and Raeburn portraits that adorn the living room of her richly furnished 17-room Fifth avenue apartment, where she lives alone. She has three servants. She even puts the pen in a box in a bedside table when she sleeps.

I might leave a diamond bracelet lying around," she said. "but never that pen. I've never even had to change the point in 24 years."

Still a beauty in her 80th year, Mrs. Rinehart took up writing after the panic of 1907 wiped out the family investments and left them $12,000 in debt. She had three young sons at the time.

"I never really meant to be a writer," she said. "I never wanted a career. And if I had to start all over again today, I don't think I would. The competition now is too keen."

But competition rarely bothered Mrs. Rinehart. Writing on a rigid schedule — from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. — she turned out from 2,000 to 6,000 words a day. The result: 60 books that made her the leading best seller American author of the 20th century. They have sold more than 11 million copies.

A publisher recently estimated that in the last 49 years her world public has paid $27,000,000 to buy her books and see her plays.

Mrs. Rinehart is justifiably proud of that record. She feels it's "not a bad achievement for one woman working all alone with a pen at a desk."

She loves to live graciously, surrounded by the symbols of splendor and elegance. Her spirit leans on and is refreshed by the durability of lovely things.

"The nicety of living is going out of the world," she said. "But I like it and cling to it.

"My tenure of life has been uncertain. I must make the best of it I can.

"I've lived a life so filled with tragedy I could never take safety for granted. I've been so close to dying so many times, and yet I'm not a coward. Even at my age I'm not afraid of dying. I hope I'm not afraid of anything."

Mrs. Rinehart's life has been full of tragedy and illness. Her brilliant father, an inventor, committed suicide. Her mother, a paralytic invalid, was accidentally scalded to death in her bath, unable to cry for help.

In 1932 she lost her husband, a tuberculosis specialist. Fifteen times she herself has undergone surgery, once for cancer. She has survived four coronary attacks and, against the advice of her doctor, still smokes a pack of cigarettes a day.

Her greatest joys are "to be surrounded by my family"—she has more than a dozen great grandchildren—"and to do a day's work."

Still mellow, warm, and cheerful, she admires courage and kindness above all other virtues and says today's generation is braver than it is given credit for.

"They are bright and gay in the face of adversity," she said. "They don't think it's tragic to have only a little money. They're wonderful."

But when I asked her what impressed her most about life in the year 1956 she said, her bright blue eyes clouding:

"It's chaos. In my childhood there was more serenity, peace, and security in the world. We have been losing these things ever since."

Temperature Is Big Factor For Broilers

By LEONARD VOSS
MU Extension Poultry Specialist

Keep your broilers comfortable this summer and they will eat more feed, gain faster, and go to market with a better finish.

When temperatures go above 100 degrees in the house there is danger of loss from heat prostration.

The age of the birds makes some difference as to how they are affected by heat. Birds under four weeks can stand much higher temperatures without death loss.

Open all possible doors, windows, and ventilators to get maximum air movement. If necessary, remove part of the walls for summer months. Leave the house open at night so it gets a chance to cool out thoroughly.

Use fans to pull out hot air and increase air circulation in houses where the openings are not adequate or on days when there is little natural air movement. Be sure the areas immediately under the fans are screened off. This is a hot, dead air space. Construction of ridge row ventilators on the peak of gable roof houses will aid in movement of air.

Keep heat out of the building through use of insulation materials. Painting metal roofs white will lower roof temperature and temperature in the house. White gives maximum reflection of heat. Even an aluminum roof is better if painted white.

Black asphalt roofs may be painted white or whitewashed to reflect heat. Whitewash is inexpensive and easy to apply and will last a season. Do not put it on before the hot weather hits as summer rains will wash off some of the whitewash material.

It helps to use shallow litter, not over three inches deep. Birds dig through the litter and sit close to the ground or floor which is always cooler.

It's important in hot weather to have plenty of feed available during the cool part of the day and plenty of feeder space. All-night lights give birds a chance to eat in the cool part of the day.

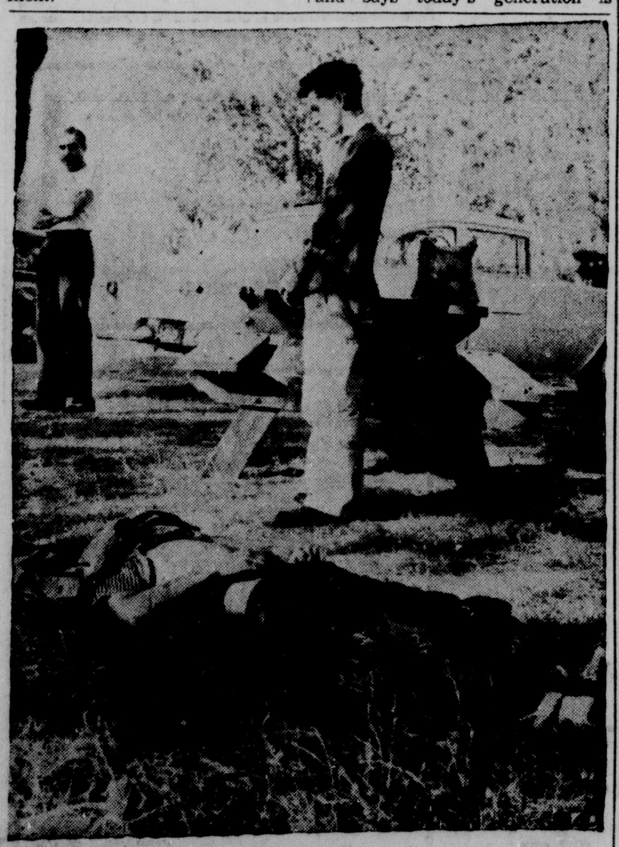
Plenty of cool, clean water is essential. Water consumption will often double during heat waves. When the temperature gets much above 100 degrees it might be well to provide some extra watering space or water pans and fill them in the early afternoon and early evening when birds are suffering most from the heat. Birds tend to crowd waterers and remain by them, making it difficult for other birds to get at water if there is not enough space.

Summer broilers should have at least 1-1¼ square feet of floor space per bird.

Emergency measures that can be used during extreme heat include running water over the roof in the afternoon, sprinkling the litter and walls lightly, or even spraying directly on the birds in early afternoon and evening. Blocks of ice can be placed throughout the house and fans used to blow air over them. Crushed ice can be placed in feeders and waters.

Prostrate birds can sometimes be revived by dipping them briefly in cool water and setting them on a damp sack in the shade where there is plenty of air movement.

WARM WEATHER PLAY — These half-grown, three-year-old Siberian tigers enjoy first taste of outdoor freedom after having spent winter indoors at the Philadelphia Zoo.



CAUGHT NAPPING BY DEATH—The body of Richard E. Bossa, Bridgewater, Mass., lies in a state park near Fremont, Nebr., where the Marine Pfc was fatally shot as he napped. Dodge County Attorney William G. Line said Jerry Vernon, 18, Montgomery, Ala., handcuffed and turned away from the body, admitted shooting Bossa and robbing him of $147. Vernon is being questioned in the case. (AP Wirephoto).

NASCAR Race Attracts Big Time Drivers

Top Drivers Are Lured by $4,600 Purse and King Size Point Fund

Late model stock car racing is one of the most unpredictable sports in America, and NASCAR National convertible racing is no exception. The 100-mile National championship race at the Missouri State Fair grounds here in Sedalia next Sunday will without a doubt prove this.

The entries are still coming in, the field is an attractive one today and is expected to exceed any race ever held in entries. The list already includes eight drivers who have won one or more championship events during the 1956 season.

There are two powerful influences to lure the big stars into taking part in this Championship race. The first is the large $4,600 guaranteed purse. Secondly, and of at least equal importance, is the king-sized Championship Point fund which is expected to reach $50,000 by the end of this season. Drivers share in this plum in a ratio to the number of total points they accumulate during the season of racing.

According to NASCAR which handles the point fund the 1956 Champion figures to pick up between 8,000 and 10,000 dollars as his share. The remainder of the fund is spread out among the other top finishers in amounts important enough to cause every driver to put forth his maximum effort in every championship race.

One of the big factors making this race an attractive one on the part of racing fans is that all makes of 1956 model stock car convertibles that could be expected to make a showing in modern competition will be represented. Since they are driven by seasoned veteran drivers, this will be the best opportunity of the year to gauge comparative performance of the different makes.

The winning combination is not always an example of the best car, because race drivers experience mechanical troubles, even as the modern motorist does on the highway or in town, but, if one will watch the race carefully you will be able to take a good reading on the make of car you like the best.

No favorites are played in this racing sport. Under the strict rules of the National Association of Stock Car Auto Racing Inc., every car must be a car which can be purchased from any authorized dealer and stock parts for these cars can be obtained from a dealer. Promoters, sponsors, and NASCAR care not who wins these races, hence the seasonal point fund was started to make each and every driver to work harder for wins and points.

In discussion with several drivers who are working over and tuning up their cars for the Sunday event, it was predicted by the drivers the track will be turned with an average speed of better than 80 miles an hour. To maintain this average the drivers must hit the straight-of-ways and run well over 100 miles per hour.

Several drivers have tested the track before starting their repairs and praised the mile oval as one of the best they have driven on this year. There will be plenty of speed, thrills and action in the time trials as well as the feature 100.

Mike O'Connor of the O'Connor Chevrolet Buick Motor Co., who is furnishing the pace car for the race, announced his pacer will be a Chevrolet Bel Aire convertible. The fire-truck red car will get the cars off to a flying start and as they circle the track will make a quick turnoff on the infield to get out of the race, otherwise may be forced to do some running itself.

Courtesy general admission tickets for $2 can be obtained at three local car dealers show rooms, the Bryant Motor Co., Dodge dealer; W. A. Smith Ford Motor Co., the Ford dealer; and the O'Connor Motor Co., the Chevrolet dealer in Sedalia. They will be obtainable at any of the three agencies up to 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

NEW YORK, (AP) — Babe Ruth has "caught up" with Mickey Mantle.

Home Run Jolts Ace Pitcher First Time

BALTIMORE, (AP) — George Zuverink, the relief ace of Baltimore's pitching staff, was jolted by a home run for the first time this season yesterday.

Billy Maxwell socked a two-run homer off Zuverink in the ninth for a 2-0 Detroit victory. It's the only one off Zuverink in 47 1-3 innings.

Bee Jays Bow To Jeff City 3-8 in CEMO

The Sedalia Bee Jays could not hold their lead and after getting back a tie saw the game fade away as Jefferson City's B.J.'s come through to beat them 8-3 at the Capital City Wednesday night. Brookfield will invade the Sedalia territory Sunday night.

The locals opened up with a lone run in the top of the second, was tied up in the bottom of the third, went ahead in the fourth and tied in the bottom half. Then in the sixth, seventh and eighth, the Jefferson City team scored two in each inning to go ahead and win.

Jim Fall scored the first run. Tony Fritsch scored the tying run for Jefferson City and Glen Vandelight's single. Then in the fourth, Mines doubled. Jim Fall advanced him to third. John Higgins singled to score Mines.

Larry Brickey for the Jefferson City team singled and went to second on a wild pitch and on to third on another wild pitch. Floyd Roberts walked, went to second on a steal and on an error Brickey scored.

Dale Heidel and Larry Scrivner both walked. Floyd Roberts doubled to score them both in the sixth. In the seventh Tony Fritsch singled, and Jerry Toebben was safe on a fielder's choice but John Higgins dropped the ball and both were safe. Vandelight sacrificed. Leroy Howser hit a sacrifice fly and Fritsch scored. Toebben scored on Heidel's single. The eighth saw Brickey hit by a pitched ball. Floyd Roberts sacrificed. Jim Cassmeyer doubled to score Brickey. Toebben singled and Cassmeyer singled.

Kenny Buhlig was the losing pitcher and Jim Cassmeyer the winner.

Town & Country Girls Give Way to Fulton 10-4 Tuesday Night

Tuesday night the Town & Country girls were defeated by Fulton 10-4. The two teams were both held scoreless until the fourth inning and then Fulton broke loose with six runs. Then Fulton went on to score four more runs while Town & Country brought four runs across the plate to wind up the game.

Town & Country will play Peck's Good Girls, the champions of Kansas City, Saturday night and then go on to play the Dortons from Kansas City Sunday night. Both games will be played here at 8 o'clock.

National Golf Open Commands Surprise

ROCHESTER, N. Y., (AP) —The man who wins the 56th National Golf Open "will have to hit the ball well off the tee," says the man who was a surprise winner himself two years ago.

And the first names that came to the lips of Ed Furgol, who won at Baltusrol in 1954, were Sam Snead, Mike Souchak and Cary Middlecoff.

"And half a dozen others," he added, covering all eventualities.

Furgol, playing out of St. Louis, Mo., doesn't give himself much of a chance.

"Except for one tournament, this is the first time I've played a round three days straight since the Masters." But he owned up to an even par 35 on the front nine in his final practice round.

OUT OF THE RUNNING—Major Jonathan R. Burton, 36, of Fort Polk, La., crashes off his mount during the toughest endurance riding test in Olympic Equestrian history, in Stockholm. Burton was almost unconscious when carried off the field. The U. S. and 10 of the 19 other nations dropped out of the team competition during this section of the grueling event. 56th US Open Starts—

Ben Hogan Stirs Discussion In Try for Fifth Golf Title

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — The "old man" and a few young men were the only controversial subjects today as the 56th U. S. Open golf championship got under way on the lush east course of Rochester's Oak Hill Club.

"The old man" is a tag Dick Mayer hung on Ben Hogan, who is here trying to win an unprecedented fifth open title.

The sturdy little Texan has stirred up more discussions among the players themselves and the multitude of fans than any other of the 162 players.

Some think he's the man to beat and that the long, 6,902-yard, par 70 Oak Hill course is just the kind for him. Others figure that age—Ben will be 44 in August—and the effects he still feels from his near-fatal automobile accident several years ago slowed Hogan's competitive pace so he can't outlast the strong-legged youngsters in this rugged event.

The young men are the caddies, whose peeve against tournament officials came to light yesterday when Sam Snead was denied the use of his long-time bag toter, Jimmy Steed.

Snead was more than slightly scorched at the change, ordered by U. S. Golf Assn. officials because Steed had not been assigned through the regular caddy pool.

"I've had this fellow all week and now I get a new man. What do they care who caddies for who? Somebody snitched on me," the West Virginia walloper protested.

Steed, who has caddied for Snead some 22 years, got a regular job here, remained out of the original pool drawing and was listed as first alternate. Snead then dismissed the caddy he had drawn and was given the man he wanted. USGA officials decided that wasn't quite cricket.

Some of the other caddies asserted that the rule of a blind draw for caddies had been violated in other instances and that favored youngsters had been assigned to certain top players.

If somebody did "snitch" on Snead, it might have been a mistake. An angry Sam might be a lot harder to beat than a serene Sammy over the tough 72 hole grind. If he can sink a few putts, he should be a contender for the one big title he never has won.

It comes down to putting in Hogan's case, too. Mayer, for one, thinks the "old man" has lost his putting touch to a certain extent.

"He doesn't hit the ball firmly enough to putt well on slow greens," Dick said. "He'll do a lot better on fast greens — and you can bet they'll be plenty fast here."

Hogan's answer to that was: "I never was a good putter. I've been working too hard for this tournament. I'm awfully tired and not playing well at all."

The players almost unanimously termed Oak Hill a "fair" but not easy test of golf.

There have been some scores in the 60s, during practice, but the concensus is a 280 total—four par rounds—will take the $6,000 top money Saturday night.

Snead, 1954 Open champion Ed Furgol of St. Louis and 1947 winner Lew Worsham, who beat Snead in a title playoff, provided the first big gallery attraction at 8:36 a. m. today. The defending champion, Fleck, was due off at 9 a. m., with Littler and PGA champ Doug Ford, and Hogan at 1:08 p. m. with Souchak and Argentina's Roberto de Vicenzo, who now plays for a Mexico City club.

The same groupings will be followed for tomorrow's second round. Then the field will be cut to the low-scoring 50 and ties for two 36-hole rounds on Saturday.

Simpson Now Second Best Hitter for A's

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Harry (Suitcase) Simpson, sent down to the minors for weak hitting just two years ago, has become the second best run-producer in the American League as cleanup hitter for the Kansas City Athletics.

The 6-foot 2-inch Negro right-fielder raised his RBI total to 45, second only to the 52 by Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees, as the A's blasted the Washington Senators, 13-4, yesterday at Washington and moved up to seventh place.

Simpson had a 4-for-4 day, raising his batting average to .298. First baseman Vic Power and catcher Chuck Thompson each had five hits in six times at bat.

Lou Boudreau's men now have won four of their last five games, including the last three of a four-game set with the Senators.

Thompson hiked his average to .377 with 13 hits in 22 trips during the five games. He would be second in the league to Mantle's .388 except that he has been at bat 106 itmes, 19 less than the required 125 for listing among the leaders.

Hector Lopez increased his batting mark to .292 and Power climbed to .302 during the A's streak.

Simpson was sent down to Indiaianapolis after a .227 season with the Cleveland Indians in 1953. He hit .282 that season and made a strong comeback last lear with the A's with a .300 mark, best of his career.

Art Ditmar struck out nine to get his fourth victory yesterday. He was relieved by Art Harrington in the heat of the eighth inning.

The St. Louis Cardinals had an open date yesterday.

Boxing Bread Winner Is 160 Pound Class

SYRACUSE, N. Y., (AP) — The 160-pound class is the big bread winner for boxing's promoters these days. And Joey Giambra, a handsome 24-year-old, fits neatly into the picture.

He slammed out a close but unanimous 10-round decision over rugged John L. Sullivan of England in a nationally televised fight last night.

It was Joey's second straight victory over the 23-year-old Sullivan in the War Memorial Auditorium. His record now is 44-4-1.

Loes Pitches Six Innings For Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP)—Manager Paul Richards of the Baltimore Orioles is off to a running start today on his attempt to parley $10,000 into a $100,000 pitcher with Billy Loes.

Richards put up the 10 grand May 14 to claim Loes from the Brooklyn Dodgers. None of the other National League clubs wanted to risk even that much on a sore-armed pitcher although he has never had a losing season.

Richards took the gamble, and as insurance had Loes checked over intensively by several Johns Hopkins physicians. As a result, Loes had three dead teeth extracted on the theory they could have been a source of infection contributing to the sore arm. It appeared yesterday as though Richards might have hit the jackpot.

Loes pitched six innings against the Detroit Tigers and they got only two men on base. The first was on Loes' only walk and the other was the only hit, a lazy single over second base by Buddy Hicks in the sixth. Loes struck out five, two of them after Hicks reached second on a sacrifice to be the only runner to get that far against him.

"I've never seen a better looking pitcher," said Richards.

He said he removed Loes after the sixth inning as a safety measure.

"I had intended to let him pitch only four innings," Richards explained. "But he was going so easy that I let him go the fifth. Then he begged me to let him pitch the sixth, and I did.

"But I didn't want to take a chance any longer on him developing a stiff arm."

By contrast, the ace relief pitcher of the Orioles, George Zuverink, was knocked for four hits in the last three innings — two of them for extra bases. The last was a ninth-inning homer by Charley Maxwell, with Wayne Belardi on base for the 2-0 Detroit victory.

Roxey Dancy Signs For IMCA Springfield Race

Roxy Dancy of Shreveport, La., one of the top racing drivers of the IMCA new car racing circuit is a long ways from home as he heads into Springfield, Mo., for next Sunday's June 17th, 200 lap, 100 mile late model stock car race. This "Rebel" driver will be racing a 1956 model Dodge in the Springfield event.

Dancy is a seasoned driver and has taken part in previous events at the Ozark Empire Fair dirt oval. He has an advantage over some of the other drivers that will be piloting their 1956 model stock cars, by his knowing the lay - out of the Springfield Speedway. His 1956 Dodge is a fast piece of equipment that could win him this race next Sunday, although the 25 or more competitors that are now entered and are scheduled to start in this 100 mile grueling grind, make it anybody's event.

This is the first time in five years that the Ozark Grand Championship, 200 lap, 100 mile late model stock car race has been held in Springfield. For this event the purse will be $2500, along with a beautiful trophy, the stake that all these lead footed speed demons will be competing for. This race is sanctioned by the International Motor Contest Association (I. M. C. A.) the oldest governing body of automobile racing in the United States.

Race time at the Springfield oval next Sunday is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. with time trials to start at 2 p.m. The Fairgrounds Grandstand Gates will open at 11 a.m. There will be plenty of space for free parking on the Fairgrounds. Box seats only are reserved.

4 Home Run Records May Be Wiped Off

NEW YORK (AP) — Some big league baseball observers are saying that horsehide they're using this season is hopped up. Others maintain it isn't any livelier than in the past few years.

The figures support the rabbit-rousers.

The latest home run totals show an increase of more than 40 per cent over those of only four years ago. The major league sluggers have walloped 794 homers this year as compared with 555 in as many games in 1952.

Furthermore, an Associated Press survey disclosed today, four major home run records stand a good chance of being wiped off the books before the 1956 campaign ends.

The American League, with shortened fences in Washington and Baltimore, has accounted for 369 four-baggers and at that pace should eclipse the league mark of 973 set in 1950. The league-leading New York Yankees, with 76, are ahead of their 1936 tempo when they set the junior circuit's club mark of 182.

The National League, which has taken over the "hitters' league" title in the past decade, shows an aggregate of 425 circuit blows. This is only two behind the figures of this time in 1955. And last season was the one in which the older loop established its standard of 1,263 homers.

The power-laden Cincinnati Redlegs have hit 84 in 50 games, a pace that would give them more than 250 for the year's work. The record is 221 by the New York Giants in 1947.

All but three teams are hitting home runs at a faster clip than they did in 1952 and most of them are way ahead. The Reds, for example, had only 43 at this time four years ago. The Yankees had 42. The St.Louis Cards, who have 53 this season, had only 26 then. And the Detroit Tigers, who have 55 in 1956, had 29 in '52.

Also, 10 big league clubs show increases over last season. The surprising Pittsburgh Pirates are 25 ahead, the Reds 21, the Tigers 12 and the Washington Senators 11.

May Miss 20-Victory Mark—

Milwaukee Braves Hit Robin Roberts for Fourth Setback

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

It begins to look as if the rest of the National League has caught up with Robin Roberts, the ace of Philadelphia's pitching staff who may miss 20 victories for the first time in seven years.

Milwaukee's Braves, who had lost 13 of 23 run-ins with Roberts, greeted Robin like a favorite cousin last night, rocking him from the mound with a seven-run fourth inning that handed the big right-hander his eighth defeat against only five victories.

It was the fourth straight setback for Roberts, who hasn't lost that many in a row since 1953. Never in his six straight 20-or-more-victory seasons was Robin shackled with a losing record at this stage of the schedule. He's had only one losing year in baseball—when he was 7-9 as a rookie with the Phils in 1948.

Only one other NL game was played, with the Chicago Cubs winning No. 10 in the last 13 on a 6-5 decision over the New York Giants. Rain postponed the first-place battle between Pittsburgh and Cincinnati. Brooklyn and St. Louis were not scheduled.

In the American, the Chicago White Sox beat the New York Yankees for the first time in seven tries 7-5 and edged into second, four games back of the Yanks, as Cleveland and Boston battled to an 11-inning 8-8 tie halted by rain.

Detroit bopped Baltimore 2-0 on Charley Maxwell's ninth-inning home run. Kansas City popped out of the cellar with 21 hits that beat Washington 13-4 and dropped the Senators into last place.

The Braves snapped a three-game losing streak in their 14-hit attack against the last place Phils. Roberts absorbed nine of the blows, including three triples by Danny O'Connell that tied a major league rocerd. Del Crandall and Ed Mathews homered for five runs in the big fourth.

Three New York errors totaled five unearned runs for the Cubs, who counted a three-run homer by Eddie Miksis as Bob Rush won his sixth with ninth-inning relief. Jim Hearn lost it for a 3-6 mark.

The White Sox won the hard way, giving up three unearned runs with four errors and over coming a 3-1 deficit in the fourth on Ron Northey's pinch three-run homer off starter Bob Turley. Larry Doby made it 5-4 in the fifth with his first home run of the season and Luis Aparico packed it away with a two-run, bases-loaded single in the seventh.

Babe Ruth "caught up" with Mickey Mantle, who hasn't hit a home run in a week. The Mick has 21 after 53 games. The Babe had the same number in the same number of games in his record 60-homer year of 1927.

Jackie Jensen socked home four runs for Boston, slashing a bases-loaded triple to tie it in the fourth Vic Wertz, who drove in five runs, had given Cleveland an 8-5 lead in the top of the fourth with his 14th homer, a three-run jolt off reliefer Dave Sisler and his second of the game.

Detroit had just one hit off Billy Loes, making his first start for the Orioles since his purchase from Brooklyn, before he retired in the seventh. Maxwell's 11th homer was the first this season off reliefer George Zuverink.

Charley Thompson and Vic Power each had five hits for the A's while Hector Lopez and Gus Zernial homered in the hit parade against four Washington pitchers.

John Wayne's Son Charms Younger Set

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The latest heartbeat of the teenage set is a second generation filmster with a shy manner and an easy grin.

He is handsome six-footer Pat Wayne, son of the screen's ace moneymaker John. Although Pat has been seen only briefly in a handful of pictures, he is already figuring prominently in the fan magazine popularity polls, placing a few notches below his famous father.

I had already talked to the proud papa, so I sought out young Pat for his reflections on his career.

I tracked him down at dinner-time at his mid-Los Angeles home where he lives with his mother, John Wayne's first wife. He introduced his older brother Mike. Pat answered questions in a taciturn and shy manner.

Does he like working in pictures?

"Oh, yes. It's a lot of fun."

How did he happen to get started?

"I had done a few little things in pictures for Mr. Ford. (director John Ford, mentor of John Wayne and Pat's godfather.) He asked me if I wanted to play a bigger part in 'The Long Gray Line.' It sounded okay."

Does he want to be an actor?

"I don't know yet. I have some time to decide—another year of high school and four of college. My father wants me to finish school first.

How are his grades.

"All right."

Brother Mike acted as press agent: "I can speak for him on that. He does very well in school—A's and B's mostly."

How does Pat's mother take to his acting career?

"She thinks it's okay," he replied. He explained that most of his film work has been in the summer and would continue to be until he gets out of college. He has signed with the C. V. Whitney company for seven years and is expected to star for the first time in "The Missouri Traveler" this summer.

John Wayne is more loquacious about Pat's career than the lad is himself. He was high in his praise for a scene Pat did in "The Searchers."

"The scene was a terror," said John. "He had to come bursting in and tell me and Ward Bond the whole story of what had happened. We interrupted him with questions, but he kept on going. Ford let it run and the kid did the scene perfectly."

A two pound smoked boneless pork butt may be roasted on a rack in an open pan; it will need about an hour and a quarter in a moderate oven.

NEW ATHLETIC AREA — This is the newly completed athletic area at Whiteman Air Force Base, Missouri. The gymnasium was built at a cost of $221,000 and is fully equipped. In the left background is the 70 by 120 feet Olympic-size swimming pool, which features underwater lighting. To the right are two tennis courts and the area which will be used for the new baseball diamond. (Whiteman AFB)

Nearly $700,000 for Recreation---

Modern Recreation Facilities Provide Whiteman AB Personnel With Sport

Whiteman Air Force Base, an Eighth Air Force installation of the Strategic Air Command can now boast one of the finest and most modern recreation areas in the armed services.

Since the base was reactivated in October, 1952, facilities for off duty athletic recreation have been at a minimum on the bases while construction has steadily continued to modernize the installation which had been a glider training base during World War II.

Until last week a small, inadequate building served as the athletic section. This building was the location of the combative measures training courses for crewmen and training area for the base's boxing team. Also cramped into this World War II vintage building were the base barber shop and model hobby shop.

The base basketball squad was forced to play its home games on courts located in nearby communities and had only limited opportunity for practice and conditioning.

During the summer months base personnel had to travel at least 20 miles to go swimming and golf and tennis enthusiasts also had to make tiring trips to communities surrounding the installation to take part in these sports.

As of now, a $221,000 gymnasium and a $188,000 Olympic-size swimming pool have gone a long way in giving Whiteman an opportunity to build a strong and active athletic program and also to provide essential recreational facilities for personnel.

The new gymnasium has virtually every accommodation expected of an athletic center. A college-size basketball court with collapsible stands surrounding it, two hand-ball courts, a gymnastic room with weight lifting equipment, massage tables and a steam room and a large shower area make Whiteman's gym as modern as any in the services.

An Olympic-size swimming pool, 70 by 120 feet, located in the immediate area of the gymnasium has been a tremendous favorite with personnel and their dependents. The pool has two diving platforms and is equipped with under water lighting and overhead arch lights used for night swimming.

Also in the same area two hard-surface tennis courts are being completed and a modern baseball diamond is being constructed which will complete the centralized athletic area. The tennis courts and baseball diamond all have arch lighting systems.

Also a nine-hole golf course is now being laid out and is expected to be open to personnel the latter part of this summer.

Nearly $700,000 is being spent at Whiteman for these athletic facilities which will give the base its long-awaited opportunity to offer a solid athletic program to its personnel.

Mumps Surprise Dad Upon Kissing Twins

CONWAY, N.C. (AP) — "Daddy, come kiss me," welcomed four-year-old Barry when father Harry Jenkins came home from work.

Daddy obliged. Then Barry told his daddy that the doctor had left only a short while before—"Daddy, I've got the mumps." So has Barry's twin brother, Larry.

Today, the twins have daddy at home with them—all three pairs of jaws swollen with mumps.

Second Campaign Puts Ike Back in Souvenir Business

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK —(NEA)— William V. C. Ruxton has temporarily put aside his automatic race track betting machine and is back selling Ike buttons. And other souvenirs that proclaim the owner's fondness for Dwight D. Eisenhower.

This is Ruxton's second campaign. He re-opened the doors of "The Ike Shop" the day after President Eisenhower announced he would accept a second nomination.

"I had my plans before then," says Ruxton, fingering his blue tie tastefully decorated with a hundred "I Like Ike" slogans. "But I had to wait for The Word. I'd already contacted my manufacturers and lined things up, of course."

And he gestured to a big table, loaded with his items—paper napkins, little jewelled pins, big jewelled pins, women's nylon hose, playing cards, pencils, chinaware, memobooks, buttons in all sizes. All said "I Like Ike" except for one button which said "J'Aime Ike."

The Ike Shop just sort of happened. In 1952 Ruxton found himself with nothing to do. He'd been a successful stockbroker, once was master of hounds for an English hunt, and had been the namesake of an automobile, "The Ruxton," which was designed by a friend of his and sold approximately four copies.

"I'd been an admirer of Gen. Eisenhower," Ruxton says, "so I went over to the Citizens for Eisenhower Committee and asked if I could help. They said sure, and put me to work in the mailroom. Well, gradually I got the idea to handle these souvenirs. For some reason or other, it's illegal for the Committee to sell them, so I set up a separate shop."

Between campaigns, Ruxton has been working on his invention—a machine which would take bets at race tracks with tokens, a sort of combination slot machine and totalizator. He's taken time out now, until after election day.

"It's not too busy yet," he says. "I have to see a lot of manufacturers and try to get the catalog out and get everything ready."

Ruxton says he's looking for new things, but so far the manufacturers haven't provided much in the way of original sensations. He's already rejected a beer can opener with Ike in rhinestones, but is still considering other odds and ends—a lollipop (lemon, with cherry flavored "I Like Ike"), a red scarf with a gold "Ike," red, white and blue feathers, a black veil, paper clips and similar souvenirs.

So far, The Ike Shop is in an office building, since most of its trade is wholesale—sales to local Citizens for Eisenhower Committees and such. Ruxton isn't in the business for profit, although he doesn't want to lose.

"I take a lot on consignment," he says. "I don't want to get stuck with a lot of stuff after Election Day — it wouldn't be worth a nickel a ton then."

Sometimes he sells items one at a time. The phone rang and Ruxton talked to a man about an "I Like Ike" belt. Turned out to be John Roosevelt who wanted one for his wife.

Smiling over all this enterprise was an autographed picture of President Eisenhower, lovingly decorated with a few sprigs of fern.

Youth Dies Under Collapsed Cinders

SCRANTON, Ia. (AP) — A 20-foot pile of cinders at a dumping ground collapsed on two 7-year-old boys, burying both of them and killing one. The second boy dug his way free.

A group of 25 workers recovered the body of Anthony Bonadio, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bonadio of Scranton, after digging 45 minutes.

The second boy, Larry Miller, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Miller, summoned help after digging his way out. He was not injured.

The boys had been playing at the base of the cinder pile on property of the R. A. Davis Coal Co.

Security Bill OK Predicted By Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mundt (R-SD) predicted today swift approval by Congress of a bill to plug what he termed "the great hole shot into our internal security" by the Supreme Court.

Mundt and Sens. Eastland (D-Miss) and McCarthy (R-Wis) introduced yesterday similar bills designed to negate the court's 6-3 ruling on Monday that the government may not summarily dismiss on security grounds workers whose jobs do not directly concern national security.

Another Republican, former Sen. Harry P. Cain of Washington, agreed in a separate interview that the Supreme Court "did shoot a hole" in the loyalty-security program, but said it was "right where it should be shot."

Cain, appointed by President Eisenhower to the Subversive Activities Control Board, has become a vigorous critic of the security program.

At the end of two days of testimony before a Senate judiciary subcommittee yesterday, one man Cain cited was reoffered a job he had lost on security grounds. And Sen. Hennings (D-Mo) said the subcommittee he heads will explore other cases which Cain described as injustices or at least questionable.

Cain on Tuesday had termed an example of "fascism" the case of an ex-GI who had lost an American Red Cross job after the Army raised security questions against him.

Last night the Defense Department announced the Red Cross has offered to rehire the man, Irving I. August of Seattle, a World War II and Korean veteran. "I'll be delighted to go back to work," August said in Seattle. He attributed his troubles to what he said was brief membership in the Progressive party in 1948. He said he dropped out because he felt "it was being influenced by Communists."

August said he wants a chance to clear his name. The Pentagon said August, dropped by the Red Cross March 26 when the Army refused to clear him for overseas service, will be given a hearing under its industrial security review system. This applies to workers of civilian contractors doing work for the military.

The outcome will determine whether August may go overseas for the Red Cross. Meantime, the Pentagon said, he will be restored without loss of pay to his former Red Cross job at Ft. Lawton, Seattle.

IRISH SITTER—Gifted with the proverbial luck of the Irish, a dove, above, found a vase of potted shamrocks on a St. Louis, Mo., porch, thus ending her search for a nesting place. With the moving-in chores accomplished, mama sits and sets, waiting for her offspring.

Youth Kills Father, Legless Amputee

ORANGE, Tex. (AP) — Sheriff Chester Holts said yesterday a 12-year-old Bridge City boy shot and killed his father, 41, at the family home because, the youth said, "my father hit me with a piece of sod."

The father, Charles A. Lieby, a legless amputee of World War II, was shot and killed by a bullet from a .32 caliber German automatic pistol as he worked in the yard Tuesday night. Holts said the shot was fired from a window of the home 70 feet away.

Holts said the boy, Tim Lieby, was being held in the Orange County jail pending completion of the investigation.

The railway service began in 1838, when President Van Buren signed the act establishing it.

New Energy-Saving Kitchen Is in Oven; Result of Unique Agriculture Study

By ALICIA HART

WASHINGTON — (NEA)— They've been stooping over a stove of late at the Agriculture Department to make life easier for us kitchen-enslaved females.

It's part of a unique study by the Agriculture Research Service which is planning to come out with a new, energy-saving kitchen. They hope to unveil it sometime next June.

That is if the portable respirators keep operating efficiently. For the gals working on the project are rigged out like frog men.

Breathing through a tube hitched to a special measuring mechanism strapped on their backs, they work away in a special kitchen. This device measures every breath they take.

The first part of the study involved hauling containers in and out of an oven raised or lowered to different levels. On the basis of energy consumed, results now released show that racks 28 to 40 inches from the floor are least fatiguing.

It was also found that getting a heavy roast in and out of an oven rack 16 inches from the floor requires 70 per cent more energy than a 36-inch rack.

Other aspects of the energy-saving kitchen are now being studied with aid of the respirator, including make-up of storage cabinets, shelf arrangement and location and the basic shape of the kitchen.

The half-dozen women using the respirators range in height from five feet, two inches to five feet, five inches tall.

When all the information is compiled, a complete kitchen will be build. The Agriculture Department has already developed a step-saving kitchen on the basis of time and motion studies.

"This new kitchen will bring together all that we know in the way of efficiency and energy consumption," says Dr. Hazel Stiebeling, Director of Home Economics Research. "It should help lessen the burden of millions of homemakers who are incapacitated.

"It will also make kitchen chores easier for the young housewife who has to care for several children, and for women who have outside jobs."

The kitchen will be particularly valuable to architects, custom builders of kitchens and cabinet manufactures, says ARS experts.

"The efficient kitchen is first and foremost a research achievement," says Dr. Stiebeling. "It represents home economics research at its best in attacking a problem.

"And probably no other feature of home life in this country is more impressive to women visitors from abroad than our kitchens."

Every breath she takes is measured by portable respirometer as Department of Agriculture household equipment specialist evaluates adjustable oven installation in test kitchen at Washington, D.C. Tests indicate that ovens 28-40 inches from floor are least fatiguing for homemaker to use.

Sedalia Girl Graduates From St. Louis School

Sandra McLaughlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phil McLaughlin, 500 South Grand Avenue, Sedalia, Missouri, was graduated from The Principia Upper School (high school) in St. Louis, in exercises held there June 7. Among other activities, Miss McLaughlin has been Counselor to younger girls, and active on The Blade Staff (school paper) and in dramatics. She was also Pep Club Board Secretary and member of the General Assembly Committee and the Inspection Committee.

Delinquent Parents

LONG BRANCH, N.J. (AP)—One of the questions in a statewide poll by the Parent-Teachers Assn. was: "Do you know where your children are right now?"

But local PTA officials ran into trouble. One of them, Mrs. William Schlenger, explained: "On many of my calls, children answered who didn't know where their parents were."

Missing, One Sewer

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Norman Manire dug and dug but he couldn't locate the sewer he paid for 40 years ago in an assessment levied by the city.

He reported his troubles to the City Council. City Engineer John C. Thompson said that the sewer is 55 feet from Manire's property. It would cost $200 to extend it there, and he submitted that it was the city's duty to do so.

The council agreed and approved the recommendation.

Pigment to Color Concrete Available in Several Shades

By MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

Paving our superhighways with "shocking pink" concrete probably would touch off a national revolution, but pink-colored patios might not be too hard to take.

Or if you disagree — how about buff, brown, red, yellow, blue or green? Special pigments for tinting fresh concrete can be had in these colors. By varying the amount of coloring material used, or by intermixing pigments, you can make concrete any shade you wish for patios, garden walks and stepping stones.

The best pigments for coloring concrete are metallic oxides—either natural or synthetic. They must be mixed with portland cement and sand or gravel before application. (Premixed pigment, cement and aggregates also can be obtained in 100-pound sacks.)

One of the touchiest phases of concrete coloring is blending these components prior to application. If not thoroughly mixed, the color won't be uniform when applied. They should be sifted through a fine screen over and over again.

Broadly speaking, there are two methods of adding the pigment - cement - aggregate coloring mixture to concrete. One is to dust it onto the surface and work it in with a wood trowel. The other way is to add water to the mixture and spread it on the fresh concrete base about ½-inch thick, then trowel it smooth. Dusted-on coloring doesn't penetrate as deeply, but the technique is far easier to master.

Regardless of the method used, the uncolored concrete should be made roughly level first. The coloring mixture can be applied after the water sheen has disappeared from the concrete but before it has hardened.

Anyone tackling a concrete-coloring project for the first time should take small-area sections at a time. Concrete stepping stones would be good for a starter. A patio is fair game for the beginner if it is divided into 30-inch sections with a crisscrossed wooden grid. Thus each section can be poured and colored separately.

Incidentally, accurate measurement of the ingredients is essential when it's necessary to make several batches of coloring mixture. It's the only way to maintain color uniformity.

For the dust-on method, prepare the coloring mixture using one part white portland cement; 1½ parts dry, white, screened sand, and enough pigment to achieve the desired tint. The pigment should be no more than 10 per cent (by weight) of the cement.

White cement and sand are specified because they don't affect the final color. Less pigment is required and pastel hues, in particular, come out clearer than if gray cement and brown sand are used in the coloring mixture.

A batch of dust-on coloring mix made with one sack of cement will cover up to 300 square feet. It should be sifted evenly over the wet concrete—one to 1¼ pounds per square foot. Work the mix into the concrete with the wood float, but stop when a water sheen appears. Smooth the surface with a steel trowel when the water has again all but disappeared.

If you use the second method—topping the uncolored concrete with a layer of colored mix—prepare the mix the same as for the dust-on technique, but add 1½ parts gravel (pea-size). Mix the dry ingredients very carefully, add water (up to five gallons) and mix until a stiff but workable mixture is achieved. The mix can be troweled onto the still-wet concrete, leveled with a strikeboard, then smoothed with wood and steel floats.

Colored concrete should be protected, when dry, with several coats of floor wax. Thereafter, twice-yearly waxings are sufficient.

State Statute Stops Revival Of 'Coon Test

LEXINGTON, Mo. (AP)—The law came to the raccoon's defense today and was set to squelch the revival of an old frontier pastime — 'coon-on-the-log contests.

A formal ruling by Missouri Atty. Gen. John M. Dalton held the sport violates a statute prohibiting the "baiting of any bull, bear, dog, cock, or other creature."

The opinion was issued at the request of D. W. Sherman, Lafayette County prosecutor.

"There's been quite a rash of contests," Sherman said. "We've had some complaints from humane society people.

"The business dates back to pioneer days, and there was a question whether you could regard it as a legitimate sort of trial for 'coon dogs. So I decided to ask the attorney general."

For the benefit of city folks who think of raccoons in terms of coats or politician's caps, it should be noted that the 'coon is a worthy foe when hunted legitimately.

A relative of the bear, he lives mostly in trees and is hunted by dog packs at night throughout the hill country. Hunters generally agree the cornered 'coon, on land or water, is a match for a single dog, though some dog fanciers are usually ready to argue the point.

That's how coon-on-a-log contests apparently got started in frontier days and why ready money betting has usually attended the contest.

It usually works like this:

A raccoon is chained to a log in deep water, some 60 feet off shore. A dog is allowed a given time to swim out and yank the ring-tailed captive into the water.

The 'coon has free use of teeth and claws. Officials in a nearby boat are supposed to separate the animals if the dog manages to drag the raccoon off the log. The encounters often are bloody.

Sherman said no prosecutions were planned but the contests will be stopped.

Peak Year Expected In Fowl Pox Cases

If history repeats itself, the cases of fowl pox will be at a peak this year. Veterinarians have observed a seven year cycle in fowl pox and this is the year for it to be more widespread over the state. Fortunately, poultrymen can vaccinate their pullets against the disease and give them lifetime immunity.

Fowl pox, caused by a virus, is characterized by its lesions that form on the wattles, face, and comb of the birds. Affected birds generally go off feed and drop in egg production. Mortality is seldom high, but the loss in egg production can be quite expensive.

The vaccination program for control of fowl pox is simple and easy to follow. Vaccinate pullets at eight to ten weeks of age with fowl pox vaccine using the feather follicle method. The technique involves plucking a few feathers from the thigh and brushing the follicles with a swab or brush dipped in the vaccine. Examine the birds within a week to ten days to be certain that nearly all the birds have a "take". The take is present if a small scab appears on the follicle openings.

High Corn Yield

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Iowa's 1955 Corn Yield Test averaged 85.7 bushels per acre for all the plots harvested, a current summary of the data indicates. This is five bushels higher than the average of the 16 years of hybrid corn testing. Four of the 12 districts in the state averaged more than 100 bushels an acre. The tests are designed to compare various hybrids grown in Iowa.

Agricultural Agent Urges Wheat Farmers To Pick Up Cards

Carl E. Johnson, office manager of the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office wishes to encourage all wheat farmers who are eligible for a wheat marketing card to pick them up at 209½ South Ohio.

There are over 2,000 of these cards and it is thought best to get them out early and avoid a rush in the office at harvest time.

If it is not convenient to come to the office, a card or letter asking that it be mailed will be accepted in lieu of a signature.

Editors Deny Dutch Conflict In Government

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—Dutch newspapers today denied speculation abroad that a faith healer's reported influence over Queen Juliana might force her abdication.

The local editors, who had held off several days on the story after it broke in a German news magazine, branded reports of the faith healer's sway over Juliana an invasion of the royal privacy.

They denied there was any constitutional conflict between the Queen and the govenment.

The reports had no apparent effect on the Dutch parliamentary elections yesterday. The Communist newspaper De Waarheid printed the story here first in apparent hope of touching off a political bomb. But the Reds in the latest balloting lost 2 of the 6 seats they had held.

The story came out in the German weekly Der Spiegel at Frankfurt. It said Juliana fell under the influence of 61-year-old Miss Greet Hofmans after Prince Bernhard brought her to the palace eight years ago to treat their partially blind daughter, Princess Maria Cristina, now 9.

The article alleged that Miss Hofmans later extended her influence to matters of state. It said a breach developed between the Queen and her husband after he barred the healer from the palace.

Most Dutch papers labeled the affair a private concern of the Queen and no one's business.

Divorce Decree Gives Settlement to Man

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Mrs. Elsinore C. Machris Gilliland, 67, has won an interlocutory divorce decree from C. Ray Gilliland, 72. But Gilliland got a whopping cash settlement, plus property.

The oil heiress, under the terms of yesterday's decree, agreed to pay Gilliland $2,000 a month for the rest of his life, or until he remarries. He also retains a home and a motel in Scottsdale, Ariz.

And she will let him keep $350,000 he borrowed from her earlier. They were married in Los Angeles May 3, 1954, and she gave a $30,000 party on the Sunset Strip to celebrate the nuptials.

Does Not Believe Two Fights Reflect Races

HONOLULU (AP) — The Navy's district commander said last night he did not believe two recent outbreaks of fighting among Negro and white sailors indicated the Navy's racial integration policy was failure.

"They are just a couple of isolated instances," said Rear Adm. Clarence E. Olsen, commander of the 14th Naval District.

Olsen said if fights break out among white and Negro sailors because of real or fancied racial prejudice, "they brought the prejudice into the service with them. They won't find it here."

Saturday about a dozen white and Negro sailors from the carrier Lexington fought 30 minutes and one white sailor was fatally stabbed.

Tuesday night four Negro Marines in civilian clothes and four sailors in uniform tangled on the base and one sailor suffered a broken nose. The four Marines are in the brig. The sailors are back at sea.

Would Ban Bowery

NEW YORK (AP)—With the city's old Third Avenue elevated gone, Manhattan's borough president Hulan Jack wants to get rid of the southernmost end of the thoroughfare—the Bowery. He says the name bears a "connotation of drunken derelicts and broken dreams."

The suggested new name: Third Avenue South.

Girl Scout Intermediate Day Camp Beginning June 18

Charles Maggard, camp chairman, Sedalia Council of Girl Scouts announces that things are in readiness for the opening of Girl Scout Intermediate Day Camp, June 18. Mrs. Roger Fuller has been chosen as day camp chairman. Mrs. Dick Sklar, day camp director, who served last year in that capacity, has the camp staff chosen and trained.

She announces the following appointments, which she believes will make an even better camp than she had hoped to expect — the theme for this years camp being "Citizenship in the Out-of-Doors" — "Stop, Look and Listen". Mrs. Gene Merry and Mrs. Arthur Klang Jr., camp crafts; Mrs. Mary Houston, assistant; Mrs. Orville Perkins, commissary; Mrs. J. M. Bailey, second vice-president, Council officer; Martha Berlin, Senior Girl Scout, opening and closing ceremony; Mrs. Elmer Lutjen, Mrs. R. S. Scott, Mrs. S. M. Knapp, Mrs. Elmer Hilgedick, Mrs. Dan Duly, Mrs. Robert Uhr, Mrs. W. L. Garrett, Mrs. F. D. Kerns, Mrs. Michael Chitty, Mrs. Ralph Hamlin, Mrs. Forrest Crabtree and Mrs. Marvin Kueck, unit leaders.

Mrs. P. Cecil Owen, long associated with Girl Scouting in Sedalia, has been selected as camp visitor.

A well-rounded program has been planned, with Jack Reed of Warrensburg, conservation agent, as a special program consultant for Tuesday, June 19.

Maggard and Harry Lambirth have been busy for many weeks getting camp in shape, painting and repairing. Maggard knows that the girls are really going to enjoy camp this year, because instead of wooden platforms for their tents, in some cases they are to have concrete platforms, just recently completed. Also, a new pump is being installed, which will add much to the enjoyment as well as the function of camp.

Camp will be "fun" as in the past, and Mrs. Sklar has registrations for 150 to 160 girls to attend, which will make a good day camp.

Hold Reception For Delegates To Convention

The Pettis County Republican Club met in regular session Monday night at 8 p.m. in the Little Theatre at Smith - Cotton High School. Mrs. J. F. Schumacher, program chairman, presided over the meeting in the absence of the club president.

The meeting was an informal reception honoring Mrs. R. B. Petts, Warsaw, and Ralph Davis, Boonville, who are the 11th Congressional District delegates to the Republican National Convention to be in San Francisco in August. Informality was carried out in the evening entertainment which was planned with the idea of getting better acquainted and enjoying the fellowship of other Republicans in the district, also sharing campaign ideas with each other.

Guests from Cooper County were, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Davis and his mother of Boonville; from Morgan County, Mrs. Cordry, Otterville; Henry Kipp and Miss Amelia Warnke, Stover, and Mrs. Opal Boulware, Syracuse; from Benton County, Mrs. R. B. Petts, Mrs. Jim Brady, Mr. and Mrs. Cole, Miss Mae Linville and Mrs. C. C. Rhodes; from Pettis County, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Palmer, C. Purchase, Green Ridge; Mrs. Olen Monsees, Miss Verona Newmeyer, Smithton; Mr. and Mrs. John Ryan and Mrs. Jack Kellerman.

Refreshments were served from an attractive table covered with a lace cloth. The flower arrangement was made by Mrs. Herbert Seifert from roses in her garden. Mrs. Ida Harriman and Mrs. Jack Kellerman served.

Mrs. Fred Handley played soft music during a portion of the evening.

Dry Storage Eye Bank Has Possibilities

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

CHICAGO (AP)—A revolutionary new kind of dry-storage eye bank is giving sight to 10 once-blinded through borrowed corneas or "windows" of the human eye. But humans, a physician said today.

They are seeing the world again through borrowed corneas or "windows" of the human eye. But these corneas were first dehydrat- for weeks or months.

Present eye banks can keep corneas in good shape under refrigeration for only a few days before they deteriorate. Blind patients sometimes spend expensive hospital stays until corneas, donated from dead persons, can reach them to try to restore sight.

Untold thousands of persons in this country and over the world are blind simply because their own corneas in the front of the eye have been clouded, scarred or damaged by disease or accident. Other thousands appear willing to donate their own eyes after death to help these blind.

The new method takes the water out of the cornea tissue, permitting simple storage in a test-tube, under vacuum, for months. Corneas presumably could be shipped anywhere needed.

The new technique, still in research stage, was described to the American Medical Assn. by Dr. John H. King Jr., associate professor of opthalmology at Georgetown University Medical Center, Washington, D.C.

The dehydration method, without freezing, was developed in research at the Army Ocular Research Unit at Walter Reed Hospital, of which Dr. King was a member. He retired very recently as an Army Medical Corps colonel.

Freeze-drying can preserve corneas for up to nine months. But they must be kept cold, and specially packaged for movement.

Simple drying offers great advantages. The watery fluid in the corneas is driven out or replaced by glycerin. Just before use, the cornea is soaked in a special salt solution, with normal watery fluids replacing the glycerin.

Ten persons have been given the dried-eye windows during the last three years, said Dr. King, who performed many of the transplants. All the windows are still clear. Some had been preserved for nine months.

NON-BIPARTISANSHIP—Looks like a stand-off, both literal and figurative, as zoo keeper Clifford Jones of Brookfield Zoo in Brookfield, Ill., tries to get Mary the donkey and Widget the elephant together. Both the Democratic and Republican symbols live in the children's section. Jones says they sometimes squabble, like their real-life counterparts, but generally get along pretty well.

Plan Living to Fit the Available Space in Today's Smaller Homes

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

For the bride moving into one of today's smaller homes, one of the first exercises in homemaking will be to create a room setting that can serve comfortably around the clock, for every occasion from brunch for the girls to overnight accommodations for a visiting relative.

Careful planning of furniture will include what kind of service you expect from each piece and how you're going to fit it into the setting. Because the sofa will figure prominently in your plans, think twice as you budget its purchase.

If the area will have to double as a guest room, perhaps a sofa that converts to a sleeper is in order. A light, tailored styling with slim, sculptured arms and exposed wood base may be in better proportion to room dimensions and other furniture than a bulkier, overstuffed couch.

But remember that the sofa will be sat upon as much or more than it will be used for sleep, so that sitting comfort is important. Some of the dual-purpose pieces are as comfortable as conventional sofas.

Long, low lines of contemporary sofas eat up wall space. You don't have to stick to the customary arrangement of sofa flanked by matching end table and lamps. Kitty Robinson, noted counselor to young homemakers, points this out to those seeking her advice.

More interesting, she says, is to vary the height of other accessories even graduating them in size up through rather tall pieces to balance the long look of the sofa.

A tall plant, floor lamp or step table placed at one end of the sofa are possibilities. If the sofa is well made and looks attractive from any angle, you can place it at right angles to the wall to serve as room divider and to conserve space. However, don't block the main traffic lane through the room.

Besides providing a place for cozy dinners for two, the dining table will be used for larger dinners, buffet service and a work surface for sewing or games.

Without encoraching too far on limited floor space, handsome, modern tables adapt drop leaf and extension styling to the small home's requirements.

But don't make the mistake I did once and buy a table just because you like the style. A wobbly drop leaf is worse than no table at all, I found. Check the construction carefully.

Storage pieces can be augmented by such auxiliary aids as servers with mar-proof tops. They're both a help to the hostess and good-looking showcases for serving accessories.

Cactus for Hobby

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Stuck for an idea for a hobby? Elzada U. Clover, associate professor of botany at the University of Michigan suggests raising cacti.

They bloom well in any climate, she says, and most of them need a dormant season. This could last from Nov. 1 to Feb. 1, during which time they should be kept at 50 or 60 degrees in a normally lighted room. Don't overrate their drinking capacity—once every two weeks will do for watering.

If you're going to keep them in a darker, cooler basement room, she says, you'd better give them less water too.

As soon as the temperature nears that of desert conditions, they can be watered normally—which should produce flower buds on mature plants.

BACK IN BUSINESS—Otto Strasser, one-time Nazi leader who broke with Hitler, may soon launch a new German political party, according to reports from West Germany. To be called the "German Social Union," its platform for the 1957 national elections will stress unification of Germany and "happy" neutrality, it is said.

Curtain the Windows; New Fabrics Filter Harsh Sun

Light and lacy, new curtains seem made to order as summer companions for windows which overlook the sunlit scene. Delicate pastel weaves, many glinting with metallic yarns, filter and diffuse the shafts of sunlight but offer no resistance to soft breezes.

An extensive selection of textured weaves, stripes, geometrics and finely drawn patterns will capture the shopper's eye. Almost every type of window has been considered from the modern living room picture window to the child's bedroom window. Curtains include panels, pinch-pleated, tiered and cafe styles.

What builds up interest in these sheers are the fresh designs. A fishnet weave, for example, may be sparked with gold, non-tarnishing yarn. Butterflies flutter in profusion across the openwork background of another design. Roses, daisies worked in stripes or showers of tiny stars add their charm to other styles.

Still another item boasts an army of little teddy bears en route to a picnic, scattered over a sheer airy background. More sophisticated are bird-and-cage designs, checkerboard patterns and woven stripes that look almost handmade.

To round out the summery setting, many of the new curtains can be matched up with yard goods, place mats or tablecloths.

I was pleasantly surprised to find that one of the styles I liked the best was also one of the least expensive.

And the prices are not very high. Some of the panels could play a solo role at the windows this summer and pair with heavier drapery come winter.

Fabrics used include cotton treated with a spot-resistant finish that rules out starching or stretching. Rayon, dacron and nylon also are used alone and in combinations.

New, dull-finish nylon net, enhanced by a formal lily pattern highlighted by gold, makes an unusually luxurious looking curtain that is, of course, washable and needs no ironing. Dacron shows up in curtains that have flocked patterns to give greater surface interest.

Color also gives these sheer net curtains a new look. Such shades as pale turquoise, pistachio, lemon, coffee beige and blue with lavender cast will give traditional white competition this season.

Have you tried frozen kale? It's delicious seasoned with onion and teamed with a cream sauce.

Kitchen arithmetic: a tall can of evaporated milk holds one and two-thirds cups.

FRENCH BREAD enlivened with savory onion butter.

Give a Casserole Supper

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Cooks all over the country have been furiously using dry onion soup mix and sour cream to make a dip for nibblers of potato chips and small crackers. We know because, wherever we go, someone—man or woman—is sure to offer us the dip recipe. We never have the nerve to say the concoction is old news to us, but politely listen while the secret formula is detailed.

Now comes a spanking new use of the soup: as a spread for French (or Italian) bread.

French bread began to be extremely popular when casserole main dishes and short menus came into vogue. It is usually served hot with a casserole: the loaf is sliced but not all the way through, the slices are buttered, and the whole thing is put into the oven to heat along with the casserole shortly before that main dish is ready.

But cooks are never satisfied. They've given the original plain buttered loaf a new slant—witness garlic bread. For this the butter used for spreading the slices is mixed with crushed or minced garlic. And some valiant souls offer more innovations: the butter for spreading is mixed with herbs or with grated cheese.

Of course ease of preparation helps to make popular this bread accompaniment to a casserole-and-dessert supper. But we suspect that the bread is also such a favorite because many a hostess discovers that a big loaf of the crisp hot bread happily helps to fill up customers at her two-course meal.

Interested in the new Onion Bread? Here's how to prepare it. If you can't get a baked French loaf from your corner market or bakery, you can use the brown-and-serve French loaves that are widely available.

NEW ONION BREAD

Ingredients: ¼ pound (½ cup) butter, 1 package dry onion soup mix, regular baked French bread.

Method: Have butter soft enough to spread easily and mix it with the dry onion soup mix. Cut French bread diagonally into slices, almost to bottom but not all the way through. Spread butter mixture on one side of bread slices—how much you use depends on how thin or thick you slice the bread and your own taste. For slices that are no more than an inch thick, try 1 or 2 teaspoons of the mixture on one side of each slice. Place the prepared bread on a sheet of aluminum foil; leave the top uncovered but draw up the foil around the sides of the bread. Bake in moderate (375 degrees) oven about 15 minutes. Serve at once. Refrigerate any of the butter and onion soup mixture leftover in a jar that has a tight cover for use another time.

Note: If brown-and-serve French loaves are used, cut and spread as directed for regular French bread. Place in oven (without covering with foil) as package directs to finish baking.

SUPPER MENUS

Chili con Carne makes a fine casserole dish. Serve with the Onion Bread and a tossed salad that includes carrot curls.

Macaroni and Cheese, enlivened with small cubes of ham, makes another good main course. Serve with the Onion Bread and a salad of romaine, cucumber and anchovies mixed with olive oil, wine vinegar, prepared mustard, salt, freshly-ground pepper.

Chicken Breasts and Mushrooms takes to the tang of the Onion Bread. Nice with a salad of water cress and orange slices.

Dessert? A fresh fruit compote is delicious after the Chili con Carne and Macaroni and Cheese. After the Chicken Breasts and Mushrooms you might serve Chocolate Roll filled with Whipped Cream.

Hear Jim Trainer Discuss Breweries At Optimist Club

Jim Trainer, assistant director of the Missouri Division of United States Brewers Foundation, was the speaker Tuesday noon at the Optimist Club meeting at Bothwell Hotel. The Foundation, he said, represents 83 per cent of the brewery industry in the nation. Problems of the brewery industry were discussed by Trainer, who later showed a film on the industry.

Milton Jones, program chairman, introduced the speaker.

The meeting was presided over by Charles Hurtt, president, with invocation by the Rev. Robert Reinhart, C.PP.S. Charles Hanna led the singing with Miss Lillian Fox at the piano.

Fred Arbogast told of the progress of the Optimist Little League which has now won three games and lost none.

Claude Boul had as his guest the Rev. Rufus Esser, C.PP.S., professor of English at St. Joseph College, Collegeville, Ind.

Father Reinhart, who has been a member of the Optimist Club since he came to Sedalia several years ago, told the club he was leaving, having been transferred to Hamilton, O.

New Wards And Precincts...

Not so many months ago we were reading headlines, "Renewed Confusion on Permanent Registration Law," "Registration Muddle," "Are You Registered," and "Dalton's Opinion Clarifies System—New Registration Law Is Simple But Takes Two Sets of Records."

Somehow most voters got through two bond elections and a city election without beging challenged. In the meantime permanent registration has been going on in the Pettis County Clerk's office.

But now the voters of Sedalia are faced with the prospect of a general re-registration because City Council by ordinance has redistricted wards and precincts as a result of recent annexations and the general need for such a procedure because of city growth and former precinct imbalance.

For instance the ward and precinct boundaries have not been unchanged for twenty years or more. The first and second wards each had three precincts; the third and fourth wards each had five precincts, a total of 16. The four wards were separated by Lamine avenue running north and south, and by Fourth street running east and west.

Under the new redistricting which embraces annexed territory the total number of wards and precincts remain the same, but each ward has four precincts instead of three or five. The north-south boundary has been removed from Lamine to a staggered line including Kentucky, Moniteau and Osage. The east-west boundary is moved from Fourth street to Broadway. The new ward and precinct map appears elsewhere in today's issue.

Democratic and Republican county chairmen have jointly concluded that because of the redistricting a general re-registration is necessary. Information as to dates of this registration will be published as soon as dates are set. Prior to this, however, any voter can register by calling at the office of the county clerk in the Pettis County court house.

Importance of an early registration is suggested by the fact that the primary election comes August 7, and personal registration must be made 28 days before that date. That does not leave much time to procrastinate.

Of course a new registration may be considered somewhat of an inconvenience but this will be more than compensated for by the long needed redistricting of Sedalia wards and precincts and the elimination of clogged and unwieldly registration books of yesteryear.

Realignment of the wards and precincts will make for more orderly balloting and eliminate some of the congestion formerly encountered in some of the precincts.

The new system of keeping the registration books clean by eliminating the names of those who move or die, and other improved phases of permanent registration, is now on the way to accomplishment.

Washington Merry-Go-Round—

GOP Determined Ike Must Be Candidate

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — After about 24 hours of hectic indecision immediately after Eisenhower's illness, the Republican high command has decided on a united and vigorous front that he can and must run again.

Hardly was he out from under the anesthetic than the word was passed down to the party faithful. Unofficially there were serious misgivings, but officially this was the party line. The President himself didn't have a word to say about it, nor did his wife and son.

The official line was adopted despite the fact that General Eisenhower himself has been quite frank about his health and his own worry over it. He is about the only man who has been frank.

Here is the record of what Eisenhower has said, both in public and in private:

1. At a stag dinner in the winter of 1954 he told Chairman Len Hall, Attorney General Brownell, and other close advisers that the Republican party should not depend on one man, that they should start to build up new men to take his place. And he named some who should be groomed.

Despite this, both Chairman Hall and Vice President Nixon left the dinner to make emphatic statements that Ike was sure to run.

2. In May, 1955, Eisenhower told Sen. George Bender of Ohio that if he ran again he would be the only President to reach the age of 70 in the White House. And he spoke — all too prophetically — about the erosion on the health of any President. To make sure his views were known publicly he asked Jim Hagerty to see to it this view was expressed to the press.

3. In September, 1935, as Republican state leaders gathered in Denver, their faces grew long as the President told them, in brief, that they could not pin their future on one man, they must begin developing other candidates. This was just three weeks prior to Eisenhower's tragic heart attack.

4. When he came back from that heart attack, Eisenhower told newsmen at Key West, Fla., that it would be wrong for him to run again unless he had a good chance of serving out a second term, because "it is a very critical thing to change governments in this country at a time when it's unexpected."

5. At his first White House press conference after the heart attack he warned: "It would be idle to pretend that my health can be wholly restored to the excellent state in which the doctors believed it to be in mid-September. . . . My future life must be carefully regulated to avoid excessive fatigue."

That is the unequivocal record of Ike's apparently definite decision at that time not to run again.

Politicians' Shrewd Strategy

However, he reckoned without the leaders of his party — some of the shrewdest leaders the party has had in many years.

Chairman Hall, the top mastermind, went to Gettysburg, came out to announce that he was confident Ike would run again. Senator Knowland of California, who called on the President the same day, came out with just the opposite opinion.

What Hall did at Gettysburg was to start a holding operation. He asked the President not to say "No," at least for the time being, on the ground that he needed to keep Congress guessing for the sake of his legislative program. A lame-duck President, Hall argued, has no influence with Congress.

Ike bought Hall's holding-operation strategy. It was the smartest thing Hall has ever done. For the passage of time gave the leaders, the White House staff, everyone around the President time to pressure him, to argue that he was the indispensable man. Simultaneously he got back his old confidence.

Ike Was Right

The President, however, was right when he talked about the erosion on the health of any man who occupies the presidency, as his latest illness now demonstrates. He was right also when he warned that "it is a very critical thing to change governments in this country at a time that is unexpected." The drop in the stock market, the meeting of Pan American Presidents left high and dry in Panama, the abortive visit of Chancellor Adenauer, the problem of what to do about Premier Nehru — all illustrate how the complicated machinery of American government is upset when an American President is benched.

So the big question is: Will Ike now follow his own advice? Will he carry out his own statement of March 7, which read:

"I have said, unless I felt absolutely up to the performance of the duties of the President, the second that I didn't, I would no longer be there in the job, or I wouldn't be available in the job.

"I am talking about my general, let's say organic fitness for the job, as I see it, and that means carrying a burden of hard work right on through the year and through the months.

"Now at any time that I believe that has failed to the point of inability to perform the job properly, then that goes before the American people instantly."

Washington Pipeline

Gen. Lucius Clay, head of Continental Can, and one of Ike's closest friends, phoned the White House immediately after Ike was taken sick and suggested future GOP strategy. Ike's digestive difficulty, General Clay advised, had been considered by the President when he made up his mind to run again. Therefore, the operation won't change his mind. . . . Some White House friends were frank in stating that all Ike needs to do is have his name on the ballot. Whether sick or well, he can win. . . . The President, who knows his own mind and inclinations better than anyone else, was quoted by Merriman Smith of the United Press last winter as remarking to friends as he walked through the White House: "I had to say yes because they told me they didn't have time to build up another candidate." . . . The item was killed by Lyle Wilson, head of the Washington UP Bureau, though Merriman, dean of White House correspondents, swore the statement was correct. Some weeks after the "kill" had aroused considerable comment among editors, Hagerty arranged for the President to make a diplomatic explanation that if he had ever said this, he didn't really mean it. . . . When the President was taken sick, he had a cabinet meeting scheduled for that morning. It was not canceled at first, but postponed to 2 p. m. No one at the White House at that time had any idea how sick he really was.

Guest Editorial—

WARRENSBURG STAR-JOURNAL: Weather Talk. Few things reveal character and temperament more surely than reaction to the weather. Some people are enlivened by sunshine, angered by wind, depressed by cloudy skies, saddened by rain. Some, more phlegmatic, pay little attention to the weather; others philosophize about it.

Still others gripe no matter what the day brings. The weather rarely, if ever, satisfies them. If it's a fine day, then they figure maybe that means a bum weekend. Consider this bit of cafe counter dialogue, which topped off a sparkling exchange of pleasantries about the weather on a dismal day:

First Man: "Well, it's a slow spring, but we might have a late fall."

Anyway, it looks like a windy summer.

Dulles Plays Tailor With Wrong Suit

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Like a tailor who thinks the suit's too big, Secretary of State Dulles walked briskly up to the subject of neutrality and went snip, snip. None of this neutrality stuff for him.

"Immoral," he said. "Shortsighted." But this suit had been made by President Eisenhower. And Vice President Nixon put the pockets on it. Eisenhower had defended the right of nations to be neutral. Nixon said such nations are "our moral equals."

This had caused confusion. Where did it leave those nations which had lined up with the United States? Then Dulles apparently thought he'd straighten it out. Instead of lessening the confusion, he added to it.

On June 6, a few hours before the House started debate on Eisenhower's $4,900,000,000 foreign aid bill, the President walked into his news conference and made a little speech defending the bill. He used no notes.

There had been discontent in Congress over helping neutrals in the cold war. Then, as if urging Congress not to be too harsh on them, Eisenhower said that if a nation stays neutral and is attacked, the world is outraged. But if it gets into a military alliance and is then attacked, the world may say it had what was coming to it, Eisenhower said.

This was startling. The United States had spent much time and money trying to persuade nations in Europe and Asia to join military pacts with this country. Was Eisenhower now saying they were wrong when they joined?

It didn't take long for Eisenhower's White House aides to try to explain what he meant. A statement issued the next day said that while Eisenhower thinks some nations are justified in being neutral, he thinks they'd be safer being U.S. allies.

That night, June 7, Nixon made a speech showing the same tolerance toward neutrals. He tried to explain why they want to be neutral. Speaking of them, he said "we must deal with other people as our moral and spiritual equals."

But Dulles didn't show any tolerance for neutrals when he made a prepared speech in Iowa June 9. He said the 42 treaties this country has with other nations "abolish, as between the parties, the principle of neutrality, which pretends that a nation can best gain safety for itself by being indifferent to the fate of others."

He added: "This has increasingly become an obsolete conception and, except under very unusual circumstances, it is an immoral and shortsighted conception."

This seemed like an absolute contradiction of what Eisenhower and Nixon had said. But when Dulles was quizzed about it at his news conference Tuesday, all he seemed able to say was that he saw no conflict between his views and Eisenhower's. Newsmen gave up when they asked him flatly if he agreed with Eisenhower and they got the same answer.

Lightning More Alarming Than It Is Dangerous

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.

The person who shuts himself or herself in a dark closet or cowers under the bod when a thunderstorm comes up is more frightened than the circumstances warrant—though it must be said that these are safe places.

Thunder, of course, will hurt no one. The chances of being struck by lightning are much less than most other hazards of life.

Deaths in the United States for which lightning was responsible numbered 249 in 1949, 219 in 1950, 248 in 1951, 212 in 1952, 145 in 1953, and 220 in 1954. The risk from jumping into the family car is greater since motor vehicle accidents cause almost 40,000 deaths each year.

It seems clear that keraunophobia, or abnormal fear of being struck by lightning, is a lot more common than the fact itself.

In essence, lightning is merely a strong electric current which ordinarily passes through the air from one cloud to another or from a cloud to the earth. If a person does happen to be in the path of a bolt of lightning when it strikes earth the situation isn't so good—though even then some do live through it.

One of the safest places during a thunderstorm is inside an automobile or a steel building. A comparatively dangerous place is in the middle of a field away from all trees or in a wooden boat in the middle of the water. It is considered unwise to lean against a lone tree during a thunderstorm but if nothing better is available it is presumed reasonably safe to sit under a tree but a few feet away from the trunk.

The following rules for personal safety during a thunderstorm have been compiled by the National Bureau of Standards:

"(a) Do not go outdoors or remain out during thunderstorms unless it is necessary. Stay inside of a building where it is dry, preferably away from chimneys, fireplaces, stoves, and other metal objects.

"(b) If there is any place of shelter, choose in the following order:

"1. Large metal or metal-framed building; 2. Dwelling or other buildings which are protected against ligthning; 3. Large unprotected building; 4. Small unprotected building.

"(C) If remaining outside is unavoidable, keep away from:

"1. Small sheds and shelters if in an exposed location. 2. Isolated trees. 3. Wire fences. 4. Hilltops and wide open spaces.

"(d) Seek shelter in a cave, a depression in the ground, a deep valley or canyon, the foot of a steep or overhanging cliff, in a dense woods, in a grove of trees."

Edson In Washington—

President's Illness Likely To Change Course of Events

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower's illness comes at an inopportune time for full conduct of national and international affairs.

Only six weeks or so remain for the present session of Congress.

Action has been completed on only one major piece of legislation—the farm bill.

The highway bill is in Senate-House conference and may be adopted soon. But everything else is only half through or even less.

The much-needed, strong administration leadership to urge passage of even the President's minimum "must" list will just not be available while he is recovering from his operation. This list includes school aid, social security, housing, postal rate increases, and Organization for Trade Cooperation bills.

It is all very well to talk of the broad delegation of responsibility and the excellent staff work which President Eisenhower has instilled in the White House organization.

But in dealing with Congress, there is no substitute for the personal leadership of a dynamic president.

Even with Mr. Eisenhower as active as he has been since last January, his record of accomplishment with the Democratic-controlled majorities of his Congress has not been too good.

The administration failed to get the farm bill it wanted on the first try.

On the foreign aid bill—which the House cut by a billion dollars—Democrats supporting the President's request for a 4.9 billion-dollar program complained they did not get the support they needed from White House and State Department.

With the President laid up for a month, the possibilities for Senate reversal of the House action are materially reduced. In fact, the President's illness puts a crimp in the full conduct of all foreign affairs, for which he is constitutionally responsible.

Canada's Foreign Minister Lester Pearson is here to talk about North Atlantic Treaty Organization changes. Germany's Chancellor Adenauer is here to talk about German unification and NATO.

While their business may be primarily with Secretary of State Dulles, any conclusions would have far more weight if concurred in personally by the President.

Mr. Eisenhower's scheduled attendance at the Panama conference of Latin American presidents is necessarily canceled.

How fully the President will be able to confer with India's Prime Minister Nehru in July remains to be seen.

A reply to Russian Premier Bulganin's latest note suggesting a reduction of U.S. armed forces will have to be delayed. This is considered a prime example of the need for a chief executive on the job full time and at all times.

The Bulganin note was obviously timed to take the heat off the Moscow government. The fire under it was well kindled by allied disclosure of the text of Party Boss Khrushchev's anti-Stalinist speech before the Communist 20th Congress. Trying to change the subject of its embarrassment and focus world attention elsewhere was a typical Communist propaganda trick.

An opportunity was offered here for a quick American reply to reshift the emphasis.

It could have pointed out that the U.S. reduced its armed forces 10 years ago, and that the Russians will have to reduce their forces still further to match the American record on disarmament. Delay in making any reply does not help the American position.

Only in the political sense can the President's illness at this time be considered fortunate. In view of the forthcoming U.S. elections, it is opportune that the President's operation came before the Republican nominating convention and not after.

That convention is still two months away. It gives the President time to make his recovery and decide for himself if he is physically fit to run for another grinding four years in the biggest and hardest job in the world.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.

Today the American flag flutters in the breeze over public buildings. Thousands of flags decorate the homes of the nation. Today is Flag Day. We are proud of this symbol of the United States. It represents our freedom, our independence from oppression, our form of self-government, our national recognition of God.

The flag is only a symbol of the people who make up our country. It represents millions of people who have lived and died for God-given freedom.

Today we can proudly revere this symbol because our people are loyal to a heritage of highest values. However, we face a serious danger of losing this heritage unless we are constantly alert to maintain our national and personal ideals. It would be so easy to allow materialism to become supreme.

The cross, too, is a symbol which stands for a power higher than man. This symbol also can be lost in our striving for human supremacy and materialistic devotion to money and things. Both of these symbols stem from God.

They should both remind us constantly that we owe our freedom, our livelihood, our power to think and all the other things which we enjoy in this nation to God.

We must do more than salute or bow our heads when we see the flag or the cross. We must pray to do our share to make the power behind the symbols real to others.

Reach for the Iron Kettle—

Snapping Campfire Sets Scene for Open Feasting

Cook-out experts reach for the big iron soup kettle when picnic days come around.

A snapping camp fire . . . the pot of soup simmering over it . . . sets the scene for the finest kind of feasting outdoors.

Turn back the pages to pioneer days and see how the soup kettle became a traditional campfire food. Kentuckians called it burgoo . . . a he-man soup of lamb, beef, heaps of vegetables. Other southerners grew up on Brunswick stew . . . with rabbit and tomatoes, butter beans and corn.

Much more lucky, today's campfire chef. He has soups at his command, ready and waiting in cans. Even the junior crowd carry cans of soup on scout hikes and fishing trips. A can or so in the knapsack comes in mighty handy after the 10-mile trail.

Experienced outdoor cooks pass along these pointers on outdoor soup service:

VACUUM BOTTLE STYLE:

Heating at home beforehand, and toting in a vacuum bottle starts you off to an outing with ready-to-serve refreshments. Soup carried this way will stay hot for five hours or more. And what a welcome it will get after the swim. No waiting for Dad to build a fire.

CARDBOARD CUP-CARTONS:

The containers with clamp-on lids (like those for ice cream) will keep soup hot for about an hour. For best results, punch a small hole in the carton lid so steam can escape. Have a cup for each picnicker. These will keep hot even longer if stacked in an insulated carrier. So nice to start a picnic on . . . while the gang waits for the campfire if you're cooking other food.

For the soup picnic, you're all set with the hot dish, toasted bread, fresh fruit, doughnuts or cookies. Enjoy some of these kettle combinations at your summer picnics.

1 can (1¼ cups) condensed beef noodle soup
1 can (1¼ cups) condensed Scotch broth
1½ soup cans water

Blend soups and water; heat. 4 servings.

BEACH-PARTY BURGOO

1 can (1¼ cups) condensed clam chowder
1 can (1¼ cups) condensed vegetarian vegetable soup.
1 soup can water.

Mix soups with water; heat. 4 servings.

Apple Dishes for Picnics

With backyards growing barbecues as prolifically as weeds, who can say anymore where a picnic will locate? Weekend suppers may be served on the patio or on the beach. Lunches run an equal chance of being at-home affairs or picnics in the park. It's one of the nicer aspects of this mobile world that a picnic may be enjoyed far from the crowd, or if the road's too crowded, right at home.

Ever since Adam and Eve munched the apple in the bright sunlight of the Garden of Eden, apple dishes and apple drinks have been well-enjoyed picnic standbys. Here are some suggestions for apple specialties that will be equally satisfying to enjoy and convenient to serve at home in the yard or by the side of a running brook. These have the added advantage of being quick and simple to prepare because they're made with canned apple sauce and apple juice all ready to drink.

Let's begin with a cocktail dip of apple sauce combined with coarsely shredded American cheddar cheese—two cups of canned apple sauce to one cup of shredded cheese—with saltines or rye bread on hand to dip with.

Even a picnic meal calls for a piece de resistance; picnicking and warm weather require energy! What about frankfurters on rolls with nutmeg apple sauce on the side? Serve the apple sauce right from the jar or can in paper cups and add a dusting of nutmeg.

Another nutritious meat dish, which may be prepared in the cool of the evening before, is an apple sauce meat loaf which remains moist and juicy until time to slice and eat. Take it along to the picnic in the baking pan and serve it cold in hearty sandwiches fixed on the spot. (You'll avoid the fuss of making and wrapping individual sandwiches ahead of time and the food will taste even better made up at the last minute).

PICNIC MEAT LOAF

1 cup dry bread crumbs
1 cup canned apple sauce
½ teaspoon sage
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup ketchup
2 lbs. ground beef

Mix together crumbs, apple sauce, sage, salt and ketchup; add beef. Mix well. Form into loaf shape on baking pan, or place in loaf pan. Bake in moderately hot oven, 375 degrees F. 1½ hours, or until done. Yields 8 servings.

Deans Disagree

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Two deans of the University of Michigan agree there is a great national need for technicians and engineers, but disagree on how to fill that need.

Dean Walter J. Emmons of the College of Engineering says, "No one is attempting to funnel students willy-nilly into engineering or any courses they won't succeed in."

But Dean James H. Robertson of the literary college says the trouble reaches down to the high school level, and the United States is in danger of entering a technical training race with Russia.

"Instead of devoting our best energies toward meeting our national needs as calmly and rationally as we can," he says, "we are in danger of turning the training of our scientists and engineers into another chariot race with the Russians.

Unskilled Convicts

FORT MADISON, Iowa (AP)—Percy Lainson, Iowa state penitentiary warden, says men who do creative work with their hands are less likely to wind up in prison.

About 20 of the 1,300 penitentiary inmates here have been skilled workers, he says, and "strangely, most of them are in for murder."

Polio Shots May Protect Unvaccinated

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

CHICAGO (AP) — Going full speed ahead with Salk polio shots might even protect some unvaccinated persons, including parents of young children, two polio experts said today.

Vaccinated children may become far less able to pass natural polio infections to other family members. There would be fewer "silent carriers" who could spread dangerous virus during epidemics to others.

The chances that Salk vaccine shots could bring this extra dividend were described by Dr. Jonas E. Salk of the University of Pittsburgh, who developed the vacvine, and Dr. David Bodian of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore.

They spoke at a polio symposium at the opening of the 105th annual meeting of the American Medical Assn.

Simultaneously, Dr. Leonard Scheele, surgeon general of the U.S. Public Health Service, called for use of "every drop" of Salk vaccine as soon as possible, even during polio epidemics.

"Vaccine given in July and August will prevent paralytic cases and even deaths in August and September," Dr. Scheele declared.

Salk vaccine is being given mainly to children under 15, the most susceptible to this crippler disease.

But even so the shots could hit at the strongest link in polio's chain of infection—the passage of natural infection from human to human, Salk and Bodian said.

Vaccination produces antibodies standing guard in the blood to intercept polio virus before it strikes at nerves.

But it might also reduce the length of time or degree to which a child harbors or reproduces virus which invades him later on.

Dr. Salk said it appears some persons infected naturally by polio virus become "silent reservoirs." Although not sickened themselves, they can become sources of infection, passing virus on to others.

Vaccination could conceivably make them so sensitive to unavoidable natural exposure that they quickly turn out great amounts of protective antibodies. Their own infection could be controlled sooner, reducing their carrier state.

Urging full use of Salk vaccine, Dr. Scheele said that since last May there has been no evidence that any lot of vaccine has been unsafe.

There was one case which could have been regarded "as suspicious" among 40 million inoculations. But this could have been coincidence, or failure of the vaccine to protect, Dr. Scheele said.

He said nearly 70 million shots have been released and the supply will continue to increase.

US, Britain Agree To Exchange Data On Atom Engines

Agreement May Include Sharing Of Facts About Nautilus; Amends '55 Pact on Peaceful Atoms Use

WASHINGTON, June 14—(AP)—The United States has signed an agreement with Great Britain for exchange of information on military atomic engines under which the British presumably will obtain facts about the pioneer U. S. atomic powered submarine, the Nautilus.

The State Department announced the agreement had been signed yesterday. Press Officer Lincoln White said it was mainly concerned with technical matters.

See Broadened Cooperation

When newsmen pressed for information today on the wording of the announcement which indicated a considerable broadening of British-American cooperation in the atomic field, White said he would try to get answers in the course of the day.

The agreement was signed by British Ambassador Sir Roger Makins, Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) and Deputy Assistant Secretary of State C. Burke Elbrick.

The technical effect of the new agreement was to amend an agreement made by the United States and Britain on July 21, 1955 "on peaceful uses of atomic energy," the announcement said.

The agreement then contained this wording which White was unable to amplify:

Wider Scope in Two Respects

"The fact of this amendment is to broaden the scope within which exchanges may take place in two respects:

"(A) as regards materials utilized in the atomic energy programs of the two countries, and

"(B) information regarding military package power reactors and other military reactors for the propulsion of naval vessels, aircraft, and land vehicles."

The agreement must, by law, lie before Congress for a 30-day period before it becomes effective.

White said he understood that the reference to materials used in atomic energy programs meant that if the British had developed some form of radioactive material which the United States did not have the United States might get access to it.

Paralyzing Subway Strike Hits New York

All of City's Lines Are Struck by First Walkout in History

NEW YORK, June 14—(AP)—With stunning suddenness, an all out subway strike hit New York City today for the first time in history.

A vast, perilous crush of humanity built up underground during the evening rush hour but was finally dispersed.

All three of the city's subway lines were hit by a wildcat strike of motormen. The system carries nearly four million persons a day over 228 miles of tracks.

Many trains were not running at all. Others moved about 30 minutes apart, so crammed that it was impossible to squeeze in any more passengers at stops.

To add to the discomfort, the mercury hit 96.1 degrees, an all time high for this date.

Long Streams Of Walkers

Long lines of people plodded across Brooklyn Bridge and the Queensboro Bridge, going home afoot from sun blistered Manhattan.

The entire day shift of the Police Department—3,500 men—were kept on overtime with the 4,000 on the night shift.

They fought to clear subway platforms, where massed humans threatened to shoulder one another onto the tracks.

The strike grew out of the birth pains of a small, new union of motormen, the Motormen's Benevolent Assn. Ind. It claims to represent about 2,000 of the system's 3,200 motormen.

In a struggle for recognition against the entrenched forces of the powerful AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union, the MBA threatened a strike for next Wednesday.

Motormen Suspended

In a counter move, the Transit Authority, which runs the system, decided to train supervisors to operate the subways if necessary. Sometime during the morning, three Coney Island motormen of the BMT line were ordered to break in some of the supervisors on a run. The motormen refused and were suspended.

Other motormen quit in protest at the suspension until the entire Coney Island line was tied up. Tying up a subway line at any one point is like damming a stream—the backup effects are tremendous.

Before the city was well aware of what was happening, the BMT was tied up from Coney Island on the south shore of Long Island to Astoria on the north shore.

Then the strikers hit the Ind, whose fast interborough express trains are the best in the system. It was badly crippled, although not completely knocked out.

Finally, the third and last line, the IRT, was hit.

Methodist Resolution Opposes Lotteries

KANSAS CITY, June 14—(AP)—A resolution opposing efforts to amend the Missouri Constitution to permit lotteries, raffles, and bingo was adopted today by the Southwest Missouri Conference of the Methodist Church.

The resolution, adopted at the closing session of the annual conference, said the church should repudiate efforts being made to make such movements "appear as crusades for civil liberties and as aids to patriotic, charitable and religious organization."

It stated the Methodist Church has "continually taken the position of opposing gambling as a vice productive of a par-reaching social evil."

The conference ended with the reading of pastoral appointments.

The Weather

CENTRAL MISSOURI—Cloudy today with showers likely, little change in temperature; partly cloudy and warm Saturday; high today in upper 80's.

The temperature Thursday at 7 a. m. was 67; 82 at 1 p. m. and 84 at 2 p. m. Low Wednesday night 64.

May Penalize Driver Leaving Keys in Car

KANSAS CITY, June 14—(AP)—Support for a proposed ordinance designed to penalize the motorist who leaves the keys in his car came today from James D. H. Reefer, chief probation officer for Jackson County.

Reefer wrote the Kansas City Police Board pointing out that at least half of the thefts by juveniles are of motor cars in which the keys have been left in the ignitions.

Missouri now has such a low, but Chief of Police Bernard C. Brannon pointed out the law has no penalty provisions.

Blair Gives View on Most Major Issues

He Pledges Support Of Big Improvement In State Services

KANSAS CITY, June 14—(AP)—Lt. Gov. James T. Blair Jr., seeking the Democratic nomination for governor of Missouri, pledged his support tonight for broad improvements in the state's services.

In a major campaign speech prepared for delivery before the Kansas City "Blair for Governor Club," the lieutenant governor touched on most big issues in this election year.

He urged more and better highways, greater recognition of agriculture as an intergral part of Missouri's economy, higher pay and more security for the state's teachers, more state aid for public health, welfare and treatment of the mentally ill and an intensive campaign to attract more business to Missouri.

He made only slight reference, however, to how the increased finances should be fully budgeted. We should know where the money is going, just as we know where it comes from."

On that point he apparently agreed with the Missouri Public Expenditure survey, a taxpayers' organization, that state administrations in the past had not used fully the authority to budget all the operations and services of the government.

His campaign headquarters said the source of needed additional money would be the subject of later speeches by Blair as the campaign progresses.

Blair, generally conceded to have the bulk of organized Democratic support, said he was presenting his views because "I think a candidate ought to say what he thinks, and say it as plainly as possible, and say it without regard for the risk that his effort may be diagnosed as a not too rare manifestation of foot and mouth disease."

He said he thought the "idle state funds" issue had been answered.

The 1956 special legislative session authorized a vote of the people in the November general election on that point. If they approve, the state would be permitted to collect interest on money not needed for immediate governmental operations.

Nazarene Church Increases Mission Goal by $2 Million

KANSAS CITY, June 14—(AP)—A goal of seven million dollars for missions in the next four years was announced today by the Church of the Nazarene.

Mrs. Louis R. Chapman, Vicksburg, Mich., president of the Nazarene Foreign Missionary Society, said this was an increase of two million over the period from 1952 to 1956.

She also set a membership goal of 170,000 by 1960, an increase of about 50,000.

Mrs. Chapman spoke at the preassembly convention of the church's missionary society. The general assembly of the church convenes here Sunday.

In her quadrennial report, Mrs. Chapman spoke of "the rising tides of nationalism and communism" engulfing the world.

"Regardless of uncertainties and difficulties, we must press on," she said. "For such a day as this Christ came. We must occupy and enlarge the territory we possess. We must charge through doors. This is the epoch making opportunity of the Church of the Nazarene."

KC Judge Sentences Moronic Speedster

KANSAS CITY, June 14—(AP)—A municipal judge called a motorist a "super-moronic driver" today and then sentenced him to serve a year and four months at the municipal farm and fined him $555.

The charges against Jack Alex Kalinka, 29, stemmed from a wild chase through Kansas City last May 22, in which speeds went over the 100 miles an hour mark. Six charges were included in the case.

Before calling Kalinka a "super-moronic driver" Judge Earle W. Frost had commented:

"This is one of the worst cases I have heard in many a day."

Committee Tacks Half of Foreign Aid Money Reduction Back on Bill

Increases Aid Sum by $615 Million; Boost to GOP Hopes

WASHINGTON, June 14—(AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee buoyed administration hopes for additional foreign aid money today. It voted to put back more than half the $1,100,000,000 slashed by the House from President Eisenhower's request.

Republicans carried the key 9-5 vote for the administration, six of the seven GOP members on the committee approving the restoration of 600 million dollars for military aid. There was no head count on a later decision to add 15 millions to European "defense support" funds.

The committee thus recommended a total of 615 millions more than the $3,800,000,000 authorized by the House.

Senate Floor Fight Certain

Its action strengthened Eisenhower's position for the floor fight certain to flare when the aid bill reaches the full Senate, probably next week.

Democratic Leader Johnson of Texas, not a member of the committee, had said earlier the President was "in deep trouble" in his plea for additional aid money. Johnson said most Democrats with whom he talked feel that administration has failed to make a case for any increase in the House figure.

Eisenhower originally sought authority to spend $4,900,000,000 in the year starting July 1 for military and economic assistance to friendly nations. He appealed to the Senate this week to give back a large amount of the House cut. Administration leaders said they needed at least 600 millions of it.

Urges Billion Be Reinstated

Sen. Green (D-RI) proposed today that the committee reinstate a full billion dollars. He lost, 8-4, getting support from only Chairman George (D-Ga), Sens. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) and Capehart (R-Ind).

Republican Leader Knowland of California then moved to restore 600 millions for military help abroad.

Voting with Knowland were George, Green, Smith, Capehart, Sparkman (D-Ala), Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), Aiken (R-Vt), and Wiley (R-Wis).

Against the increase were Sens. Langer (R-ND), Fulbright (D-Ark) Mansfield (D-Mont), Morse (D-Ore.) and Long (D-La).

The 15 million voted for defense support activity represented the amount the House chopped from economic aid to Yugoslavia. In the committee version, however, it was not earmarked for any particular European country but supplemented 63 millions allowed by the House for that area.

OK's $2.5 Billion Military Aid

Instead of the three billions Eisenhower originally asked for military assistance, the committee approved $2,525,000,000. But the administration has authority to use an additional 75 millions previously authorized, so that the net reduction for the military phase of the program would be 400 million against the billion-dollar House cut.

Before acting, the senators called Defense and State Department officials to a private session to explain further the administration's bid for extra dollars to help support Allied ground, sea and air forces.

Beginner's Permit Required---

Many Persons Operate Cars On Open Highways Illegally

Many persons, through ignorance of the law, operate an automobile illegally on the open roads of Missouri.

The state law requires any person, regardless of whether they are learning or not, to have a permit of some type. Ever since Missouri has had a driver's license law, a beginner has been required by law to have a beginner's permit.

Only exceptions to the rule are drivers who reside in a state that does not require a driver's license and those who drive a farm implement on the open road temporarily. The only time an exception is made to the minimum age is when a person is a student and then the permit is held by the instructor.

Another mis-apprehension is that judges revoke licenses at their will. This is not entirely true since Missouri law states specifically when licenses are to be revoked or suspended.

Some of the instances when judges are compelled to revoke licenses are when considerable property damage has been done and when a driver has been convicted three times in two years on traffic violations.

Another mistaken idea that some drivers have is that you cannot be arrested for passing on a hill

Harry Trumans Meet With Belgium's King

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman and his wife, Bess, had a 30-minute audience today with King Baudouin, Belgium's 25-year-old monarch.

They went to the royal palace after an early breakfast and the morning got so crowded Mrs. Truman dropped her original plan to go shopping.

Truman, in formal morning dress, told newsmen after their meeting with Baudouin:

"It was a very pleasant and satisfactory interview, but it is up to the king to report on what was said. There is nothing I can tell you about that.

"I have seen the King before. He came to the White House when I was president."

The touring couple went on today to the Netherlands.

Ike Recovers Well; Visited By Adenauer

Discussion of 2nd Term Queries on Ike Refused by Hagerty

WASHINGTON, June 14—(AP)—Three medical bulletins today reported President Eisenhower coming along well, and getting to drink some tea, warm water and beef broth in small amounts.

A highlight of the day was a visit from Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany, to whom the President voiced hope for the "liberation" of 17 million Germans from "Soviet Communist rule."

There was also a continued refusal by Press Secretary James C. Hagerty to discuss any questions about a second term, so long as the President remains in Walter Reed Army Hospital.

Hagerty refused to relay to Eisenhower a question as to whether his new illness may lead the President to reconsider his Feb. 29 decision to run for re-election.

Recovery Speed A 'Miracle'

The morning visit with Adenauer lasted 10 minutes. The German leader said afterward that the speed of Eisenhower's recovery was a "miracle." He said the President's doctors told him it wos possible because they had "a healthy organism" to work with.

Hagerty refused to comment on quotations from a medical journal and an insurance manual saying that ileitis frequently recurs even after surgery.

The quotations were carried in a syndicated column by Doris Fleeson. The writer suggested these views should be weighed along with statements made by Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, who performed the surgery, that a recurrence is unlikely in the President's case.

When a reporter suggested the citations "raised some questions" which should be answered by the President's physicians, Hagerty retorted:

"It doesn't raise any questions. Miss Fleeson is not a doctor.

"We have tried to the best of our ability to give you the opinion of the doctors who are on the case."

Laundry Worker Severely Injured In Mishap on Job

Goodson Merriott, 33, 1810 South Quincy, was severely injured shortly before 4 o'clock Thursday in an accident on his job at the Dorn-Cloney Laundry, Third and Lamine. His condition late Thursday night was reported as being good and he was resting quietly.

Merriott, an employee of the laundry, was taking clothing from one of the large washers when the accident occurred according to a report given the police. He was leaning into the tumbler when suddenly something slipped and the tumbler inside the large vat began to turn.

His head, shoulders and arms were caught between the tumbler and the outside vat before the machine was completely stopped. It was reported a door on the machine also closed down on him.

He suffered painful bruises and sprains about the neck, chest and shoulders, and shock. He was rushed to the Bothwell Hospital in the McLaughlin ambulance where Dr. John E. Lamy rendered medical treatment. X-ray pictures were also taken to determine if there were any fractures.

Merriott is well known, being a member of the Missouri Valley Boys which appears on KDRO-TV Sunday nights. He plays the fiddle with the musical group.

WHEAT HARVEST IN WICHITA AREA—As the 1956 Kansas wheat harvest got underway, these combines cut wide swaths in a field of golden grain near Wichita. Early reports in the state indicated harvest yields generally were exceeding pre-harvest estimates. More than 600 boxcars were needed at Wichita as grain came into the city from nearby fields. Estimates of eight to 20 bushels an acre are expected from the area. (NEA Telephoto)

Convictions Returned in Tax-Fix Case

Jury Finds Caudle, Connelly Guilty of Conspiracy Charges

ST. LOUIS, June 14—(AP)—Two top Truman administration officials, Matthew J. Connelly and T. Lamar Caudle, sat motionless today as they heard a federal jury convict them of conspiring to help an income tax dodger.

The conviction could mean as much as five year imprisonment and a $10,000 fine for both Connelly, 48-year-old White House appointments secretary under former President Truman, and the 52-year-old Caudle, one-time Justice Department tax head.

Sentencing Set For July 19

U. S. Dist. Judge Rubey M. Hulen set their sentencing for July 19. He said he would also hear motions that day and the defense indicated it would seek a new trial.

Connelly, neatly dressed in a gray suit, tried to avoid newsmen as he walked from the courtroom. Friendly with them throughout the trial, he appeared grim and tense. "No comment, boys," was all he would say as he hurried from the federal building.

Caudle was obviously shocked, too. At first he wouldn't talk but when he regained his composure said said:

"I know I am an innocent man, convicted for something I never did. I will face my God, my sweet children and my friends when my time comes. I have no apologies for anything I have done."

Deliberate Less Than 9 Hours

The jury of four women and eight men from rural eastern Missouri had been out less than nine hours in all. They took the case yesterday but when they failed to reach a verdict by 10 p. m., the judge sent the jurors to bed with instructions to resume deliberations today at 9 a. m.

Caudle, now a lawyer in his hometown of Wadesboro, N.C., and Connelly were convicted of conspiring to defraud the government of their official services by trying to sidetrack criminal prosecution of Irving Sachs, a St. Louis shoe manufacturer.

Eventually Sachs was indicted by a grand jury. He pleaded guilty to evading $128,721 in income taxes and was fined $40,000. He escaped a prison term on grounds of poor health.

Indiana Man to Serve Term for Assault

KANSAS CITY, June 14—(AP)—James T. Cockrum, 23, Brownstone, Ind., today was sentenced to serve three years in the Missouri Penitentiary after he pleaded guilty to a charge of assault with intent to kill.

He was arrested last February after he had shot and wounded Mrs. Patricia Greenly in a hotel room. He held off police with a pistol before he was driven out by tear gas.

To Survey North Missouri Drouth Conditions Anew

WASHINGTON, June 14—(AP)—The Agriculture Department announced today it will make a new survey of drought conditions in 11 north Missouri counties to determine if federal emergency aid is needed.

The department rejected an earlier plea of the counties for assistance. It said a survey by state and federal representatives showed that drought conditions were serious, but were not sufficiently acute to warrant federal help under terms of the law.

The counties seeking help are Daviess, DeKalb, Gentry, Grundy, Harrison, Livingston, Mercer, Nodaway, Putnam, Sullivan and Worth.

The department said it will resurvey the area under a policy of working with states in studying possible changes in drought conditions.

The new survey will be made after a drought emergency meeting to be held by state officials and affected farmers at Bethany, Mo., June 18.

Mrs. Gilbert Roberts

Miss Janet Lou Rager Becomes Bride of Gilbert L. Roberts

Miss Janet Lou Ragar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Ragar, 1319 South Barrett, became the bride of Gilbert L. Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Roberts, 900 West Henry, at 1:30 o'clock the afternoon of June 5 at the Fifth Street Methodist Church with the Rev. D. Warren Neal reading the double ring ceremony. An arrangement of baskets of gladioli and blue tipped white carnations formed a background.

Mrs. Mae Moser played a selection of organ music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a snow white ballerina length gown of imported Chantilly lace and gossamer tulle over shimmering bridal satin. The snug fitting lace bodice was styled with a scalloped sabrina neckline and was complimented by elbow-length mitts of tulle edged in lace. The very bouffant tulle skirt had a band of lace around the hipline and was worn over hoops and crinolines. Her double fingertip veil of French illusion was held by a tiara of seed pearls and ice blue sequins. Her cascade bouquet was of white carnations.

Miss Barbara Dunn was the bride's only attendant. Her dress was of white organdy with overall embroidery of blue, and was ballerina length with a full skirt and a collar softly draped over the shoulder, with long streamers in the back. She wore a band of blue flowers in her hair and carried a cascade bouquet of blue tinted carnations.

Stanley Ragar, brother of the bride, was best man.

Ushers were Wayne Ragar, brother of the bride, and Clayton Craig, friend of the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride wore a beige sheath dress with matching accessories. The mother of the bridegroom wore a flowered sheer dress. Both had corsages of white carnations.

Mrs. Leo Bruns, Clinton, sister of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents with her sister, Mrs. Leo Bruns, and Miss Zelda Taylor, Pleasant Hill, and Miss Mary Sexton, Kansas City, serving at the bride's table. They wore blue sheath dresses. The bride's table was covered with a white crocheted table cloth over yellow.

The table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake surrounded by greenery and yellow daisies.

The couple left for a short wedding trip after the reception and will reside in Kansas City.

Shirley Seagrave Becomes Bride Of G. Markham

Miss Shirley Jean Seagrave, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Seagrave, Bedford, England, became the bride of A-1c Gene K. Markham, Chicksand AFB, England, son of Mrs. Myrl Katschman, Chicago, and grandson of Mrs. Roy L. Kay, California, Mo., in a double ring ceremony May 12 in England.

The bride wore a lime taffeta gown with straight skirt and strapless bodice with a full over skirt of nylon net and short bolero jacket of taffeta styled with a madarin collar and extremely full set sleeves. She wore a white hat and white accessories. Her bouquet was of red American Beauty roses.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents in Bedford for 50 guests. A three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with roses and streamers of sea shells down the side of the cake, which was topped with a bouquet of orange blossoms.

After a wedding trip to London, the couple are now living in Bedford.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the California (Mo). High School, class of 1950, and worked in Kansas City prior to entering service. He has been in the Air Force four years. He lived a number of years with his grandmother in California, and his two brothers, Jim and Bob Markham, are still with her.

H. Heisterberg, Kenneth Bergman Exchange Vows

Miss Helen Heisterberg, R. N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Heisterberg, Cole Camp and Mr. Kenneth Bergman, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Bergman, Sedalia, were united in marriage at 2 o'clock Sunday, May 6, at Gaylord, Kan. The Rev. H. Renz, reading the double ring ceremony at Christ Lutheran Church.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dick of North Kansas City.

The bride chose a mist blue suit and black and white accessories for her wedding costume. A corsage of red roses and lily of the valley, completed her costume.

Mrs. Dick wore a pastel floral pink dress and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

The bride is a graduate of Cole Camp high school and the Kansas City General Hospital School of Nursing. Presently she is employed in the Emergency Room in Menorah Hospital, Kansas City.

Neglect of Fences Leads To Expensive Replacement

By MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

When spring rains have subsided and dry weather prevails—that's the time to look to your garden or boundary fences for signs of winter damage, and to repair them.

Wind, rain and frost punish fences so severely that annual maintenance is a must. Neglect invites deterioration in the form of rust, rot and decay, which can only lead to eventual wholesale replacement of a fence line.

Protective coatings have to be renewed at regular intervals—paint, generally every third year; stain, as often as every other year.

Fence posts need to be aligned and straightened yearly. Frost action, wind pressure and unstable soil work in combination to loosen posts, causing them to lean or topple.

Often an automobile bumper jack can be employed to straighten a fence post which cannot be pulled erect by hand. Brace the jack base against a 2x4 stake driven into the ground near the post and place a piece of scrap wood between the jack's lifting flange and post. Then rack out the jack and use a spirit level to tell when the post is plumb. Tamp crushed stone and soil around its base.

Where unstable soil contributes to fence toppling it's a good idea to pour a concrete collar around the post to a depth of about 12 inches, making the hole larger at the bottom than at grade level. Coat the exposed lower portion of the post with roofing asphalt to a height about two inches above ground, then pour the concrete collar.

If wind pressure seems to be the chief offender, it may be necessary to brace the fence with boards or guy wires. One attractive way of bracing a wind-blown fence is to erect smaller fences at right angles, but attached, to the main fence.

Nails holding rails or pickets are likely to work loose when fence posts wander out of position. Result: wood joints open up and water trapped in them brings on rot. The open joints should be saturated with a wood preservative — pentachlorophenol or zinc naphthenate. Then the nails should be redriven or, if rusted, replaced with nonrusting aluminum or galvanized nails.

Rot is, of course, the greatest threat to a wooden fence. Dig away soil at the ground line around posts and look for decay there. If minor, the decay can be halted—temporarily, at least—by clearing away the bad wood and soaking the affected part with a wood preservative.

On the other hand, if decay is severe you can either attempt to repair the post or get a new one. For a sound repair, cut off the post just above ground level and splice on a new base.

You can butt the parts together, end to end, and join them by bolting steel "splints" to opposite sides of the joint. The splints should be eight to 10-inch plates of ¼-inch steel. Or, you can lap cut the ends of both pieces and fasten them together with bolts through the half-lap joint.

Treat the new end of the post with wood preservative before resetting it. This is accomplished by letting the post stand 24 hours or longer in a bucket filled with preservative solution. The solution should completely cover the spliced joint.

Adopt Greek Youth—

The Mehans Go to New York To Meet New Family Member

Mr. and Mrs. George Mehan, LaMonte, Route 1, and their six-year-old adopted son, Johnny, are on their way to New York to meet a new member of their family, a ten-year-old boy from Greece whom the Mehans' are adopting.

Mr. Mehan came from Greece himself when he was 17 years old and is a farmer in the LaMonte neighborhood.

A year ago last July, when they heard about foreign children for adoption, they felt it would be nice if they would adopt a foreign child instead of another American child as they had planned to do. So they went to the welfare office where they talked to Mrs. Ena Killingsworth, child welfare worker, and told her they wanted to adopt a foreign child — a Grecian child—because they felt it would be easier for the youngster to adjust to his home in America if the father could speak his language.

Mrs. Killingsworth was very happy to do anything she could do, so she started writing letters, and the time and red tape dragged on. The little boy's tenth birthay drew closer and closer, and if he reached that day before the papers were all signed and everything was set he wouldn't be able to come because of the immigration laws. His birthday was April 1, and so the completing of the plans were hurried as April neared. Then, at last, everything was ready.

The child, whose father was killed in guerrilla warfare and whose mother was not able to keep him, was eager to come to America. He lived with relatives in Greece, and life was a bit rough for him.

In the farm home of the Mehans there was an eagerness, too, with many plans being made. Monday the family will leave for New York, Tuesday they will contact the International Agency, and on Wednesday their little boy will arrive from Greece.

The trip back home will be slower and they will spend a little time sightseeing so that Johnny and his new brother from Greece will have a better opportunity to get acquantied before they arrive home.

3 Survivors Of Tugboat Are Rescued

Four Crew Members Of May Dee Still Missing in Sound

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Three survivors from the sinking of the tug May Dee, which went down off the Mississippi coast yesterday during a tropical storm, were picked up early today. Four men still were missing.

The tug O. J. Senac, out of Morgan City, La., rescued the three men northwest of the point where the May Dee went down. Last night the tug Cormorant had picked up eight men from the rough waters south of Bay St. Louis, Miss.

Rescue ships roved over the Mississippi Sound during the night searching for survivors.

The 60-foot May Dee, owned by Stevens and Co. Inc., of New Orleans, sank in Grand Island Channel, about ten miles east of the Mississippi line as Gulf tides reached their highest point since the disastrous hurricane of 1947.

Clay Calhoun, general manager of the Stevens firm, said the May Dee went down while trying to rescue seven men from the barge. The May Dee was swamped and its eight-man crew was thrown into the water along with the seven men from the barge.

Calhoun said the names of the 15 men were not immediately available. But the rescued included the May Dee's captain who was not identified.

A radio report monitored by station WGCM at Gulfport from the tug Conrad said the captain was picked up while swimming near a beacon.

A Coast Guard cutter and two other ships continued to search through the night and were joined by two planes and a helicopter at daybreak.

The eight men on the barge wore life jackets, the Coast Guard said.

The barge from which the seven men jumped to the May Dee was equipped with living quarters. It was with the May Dee and another tug on a dredging operation near Cat Island.

The storm moved through the interior of south Mississippi last night, with heavy rains heralding the center.

"To be sure," Lacoste said in a newspaper interview, "it is far from my thoughts to tell you that confidence and order are re-established."

Jane Froman Divorces Air Pilot Husband

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The storybook marriage of singing star Jane Froman ended in court today when she divorced the airline pilot who saved her life in a crash in Portugal 12 years ago.

She accused John Curtis Burn, her second husband, of desertion.

The crash which brought them together and led to their romance attracted nationwide interest and a movie was made about her comeback from serious injuries.

District Judge Frank McNamee granted the decree to the singer, who finished a month-long hotel engagement here last week.

The marriage, in Coral Gables, Fla., March 12, 1948, was Burn's first. Miss Froman had been divorced from Donald Ross.

Miss Froman's attorney, Miss Emilie Wanderer, said the hearing, in the judge's chambers, lasted only about five minutes.

Under questioning, Miss Wanderer said, Miss Froman testified "simply that he left her a year ago and they hadn't gone back together."

"The grounds were very simple," the attorney added. "Desertion for a year is one of the grounds for divorce in Nevada."

The attorney said Miss Froman plans to "rest for a while" at the Desert Inn, the hotel where she recently appeared.

The singer announced in New York last February: "John and I have agreed to separate for the present."

Both Miss Froman and Burn were severely injured in 1943 when a Pan - American plane crashed in the Tagus River near Lisbon. It was carrying USO entertainers on a wartime tour of American troops. Twenty-four of 39 persons aboard died.

Burn, aboard the ill - starred plane as an observer, suffered a broken back in the crash. He held Miss Froman above the icy water for nearly an hour, however, before they were rescued.

"I should be all right," Journey said. "I now have four campaign managers and only two opponents in the primary."

The drastic change in Communist Chinese thought is believed motivated by the country's pressing need for more and better scientists.

Say Vaccine Can Be Given In Epidemic

CHICAGO (AP)—A team of Navy doctors reported today that Salk polio vaccine apparently can be given during the height of an epidemic with little or no paralysis-provoking effect of its own.

Capt. John R. Seal of the naval Medical Corps reported on the vaccination of more than 26,010 children and married adults in Navy and Marine service families in Honolulu during what he called a "rather severe" polio epidemic there last fall.

The joint report, made with Naval Capt. Robert S. Pogs of Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and Dr. Neal Nathanson of Atlanta, Ga., was prepared for the annual meeting of the American Medical Assn. (AMA).

Dr. Seal said some doctors feared that the act of vaccination during an epidemic might provoke paralysis in persons who might already have been infected with polio virus.

But the results showed, he said, that the "provoking effect, if present at all, was negligible."

Also, he said, the behavior of the epidemic, following the vaccine program, was "consistent with the vaccine being effective, although no conclusive proof of effectiveness was obtained."

Actually, there was a decline in the rate of cases following the launching of the vaccination program, he said, but regardless of whether this decline was due to the vaccine itself, "the vaccine program had a saluatory (sic) effect on morale."

Capt. Poos, when he first detected the outbreak, recommended that Salk vaccine "be given as quickly as possible to all Navy and Marine Corps families residing in Hawaii." About two - thirds of them were inoculated.

Sarnoff Says NBC TV Lost In First Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert Sarnoff, replying to contentions of "profiteering" by television networks, said today NBC's TV network lost over four million dollars in its first eight years.

The president of National Broadcasting Co. was testifying before the Senate Commerce Committee which is considering proposals for federal regulation of radio-TV networks.

Sarnoff said that last year was the first that NBC's TV network made money—what he termed a "modest" cumulative net income of $2,315,000.

"These facts show," Sarnoff said, "that any claim of exorbitant profits from this high risk business is not in accordance with the economic realities."

Sen. Bricker of Ohio, top Republican on the Commerce Committee, has contended that NBC and CBS are making fabulous profits and have established an "economic stranglehold" on the TV industry. Bricker suggested that TV networks be brought under federal regulation.

Sarnoff said regulation would only "upset the delicate balance of network advertising, affiliation relationships and service to the public."

"Moreover," he said, "various types of regulation which have been proposed could not be effected without regulating advertisers.

"Such a step would raise the most serious problems, not only for television, but for the American enterprise system."

where there is no yellow line. Actually the yellow line has no significance except that it is a warning. The state law says that it is a violation to pass another vehicle anywhere the view is obstructed.

A violation that is often the cause of a wreck is the failure of a driver to dim his lights while meeting oncoming traffic. The traffic code requires all drivers to dim headlights at a distance of 500 feet in advance of meeting another vehicle.

Another item that would help reduce headon collisions is the yielding of right-of-way to passing vehicles. A motorist is required by law to yield the right-of-way to another vehicle that may be passing, but so often motorists keep driving the same speed and stay in the same path regardless of the danger that might be impending.

The state law makes the owner of an automobile responsible for permitting a person to drive his car without a proper license. Financial responsibility is also placed on the owner as well as the driver of an automobile for any damage incurred.

Even though Missouri does not have a set speed limit, driving through a zone marked with a suggested speed at an excessive rate can place the driver in a position of careless and imprudent driving.

Interpreting the News—

Position of US' Korean Forces Typical of Red Move

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

The present position of American military forces guarding the truce line in Korea is typical of what the Communist are trying to do all over the world through their smile offensive.

Military authorities in Korea and at the Pentagon are asking how long they are going to have to sit still with their obsolete arms while the Communists build up their power in violation of the truce.

The chief complaint of the moment is that the Communists are putting modern weapons into North Korea, chiefly jet planes, while American troops are denied the modern Nike defense.

Under the truce, both sides agred to a freeze of men and weapons as of the end of shooting.

The United States has three choices. It can resume the war. It can begin a corresponding violation of the truce. Or it can sit and watch.

The first two would have to be unilateral, since the United Nations Allies will not agree. Resumption of the war is not even being considered.

Shipment of modern defensive but not offensive weapons is being considered. If the generals make enough noise, the American public will probably demand it.

The position in Korea, however, is not a critical one, since it could be corrected almost on a moment's notice if the Reds tried another invasion.

As an example of Communist policy, though, it is extremely important. It relates to the way they think and act in general.

They are under no moral compulsions, as are the nations of the free world. They can sit back and laugh at nations which let their morals interfere with correction of such situations as that in Korea.

In the broader world situation, they can propose and make agreements which would only produce similar results. They have tried to do so both with regard to nuclear and conventional weapons. They have tried to do so with regard to a mutual security arrangement for Europe.
